this book is an attempt to explain to the layperson what contemporary economics is about it starts on the assumption that most economics is just refined common sense and clearly explains the key ideas associated with each issue all the main topics of academic economics are considered the theory of individual choice the labour market the competition between firms international trade economic growth the stock market unemployment and money the general principles are sketched first without maths or diagrams and then discussed in the context of topical problems such as the collapse of communism in eastern europe the lack of development in the third world countries the contrast between market forces and the protection of the environment showing how economics is not necessarily a dry academic pursuit whereas the economics discipline possesses a highly refined theoretical apparatus to analyze the effects of government behaviour on the economy it has not yet managed to fully develop a positively formulated economic theory of politics that would permit the integration of the decision making processes of voters parties and governments with those of consumers and firms considerable recent advances notwithstanding the large and heterogeneous body of literature has so far remained outside the economic mainstream the paper surveys the main approaches used to endogenize democratic elements and assesses the underlying reasons for researchers renewed interest in this field
