Mainstream America has long equated leftism with communism and communism with the quintessentially un-American with the end of the Cold War this equation no longer even seems necessary its elements now fail to pose a credible threat to capitalism but leftism in America has meant more than communism or socialism or anarchism or any other prescribed political category it has been an integral part of the American political experience and perhaps at no time more than now is it appropriate to reassess the role it has played in shaping American thought and culture in the twentieth century to see it as Julia Dietrich suggests not only as a revolutionary challenge to capitalism but also as a complex expression of people's hopes Dietrich traces the movement's rise from 1912 when the Greenwich Village magazine Masses underwent a shift toward revolutionary socialism and writers such as Emma Goldman Max Eastman John Reed and Floyd Dell began contributing to its pages she follows it through the Russian Revolution the trials of Sacco and Vanzetti workers' demonstrations the era of the Popular Front the Spanish Revolution the many permutations of the Communist Party the witch hunts of Joseph McCarthy and his ultimate censure by the U.S. Senate by which time the old left had lost much of its cultural force to flesh out the movement's many contours over the years Dietrich draws from a wide array of literary forms political tracts such as John Reed's classic Ten Days That Shook the World memoirs Dorothy Day's The Long Loneliness fictionalized autobiographies Agnes Smedley's Daughter of Earth and Mike Gold's Jews Without Money historical novels Upton Sinclair's Boston and Mary Heaton Vorse's Strike plays Clifford Odets's Waiting for Lefty poems Claude McKay's If We Must Die and songs the ballads of Joe Hill and other unknown writers fragmented urban images fuses urban studies and literary criticism to examine the city image in american fiction in the twentieth century the study proposes a reassessment of the complex interaction between society city and novel it focuses particularly on the ways in which the diversity of fragmented experience and the ideological bias in the assessment of urban condition reappear in the modernist city images the study finds that contrary to appearances cities can hardly be called agents in modernity as expressions of fundamental divisions in society they are crucial catalysts however eight influential city novels are interpreted to provide a distinct view of the interrelation between fragmented experience fictional perception and urban thought in modernity maggie a girl of the streets by stephen crane sister carrie by theodore dreiser the jungle by upton sinclair the great gatsby by f scott fitzgerald manhattan transfer by john dos passos native son by richard wright last exit to brooklyn by hubert selby and the crying of lot 49 by thomas pynchon
