while the fate of africa is much discussed in the west westerners rarely hear the voices of africans themselves in the debate over the future of this imperiled continent pan africanism aims to unite the many different peoples of africa and the diaspora in the west indies latin america the u s and the u k as a political movement pan africanism first found expression 100 years ago and has since then waxed and waned according to wars economic and political tides and the often fickle vicissitudes of western influence bringing together over a dozen influential writers political leaders and activists pan africanism defines what constitutes the movement as we approach the millennium by addressing such subjects as the role of science and technology in africa s future and the potential for a pan african women s movement the writers offer a valuable overview of the political economy of uniting across the continent and beyond at a time when the threat of recolonization looms large pan africanism offers a unique vantage point to study africa s encounters with international law first as a continent whose political entities were excluded from the scope of application of the eurocentric version of international law that was applied among the self styled club of civilized nations second through the emergence of african states as subjects of international law willing to contribute to the reform and further development of the law as a universal interstate normative system and third as members of the oau and the au acting collectively to generate innovative principles and rules which though applicable only in the context of intra african relations either go beyond those existing at the universal level or complement them by broadening their scope this study examines those encounters through the various stages in the evolution of pan africanism from a diaspora based movement engaged in the struggle for the emancipation of the peoples of the continent to groupings of independent states and intergovernmental organizations which continue to promote african unity and influence the development of international law to make it more reflective of diverse legal traditions and values
