for more than half a century the anglican diocese of melbourne was unquestionably the most rigorously evangelical and missions oriented diocese in australia the diocese of sydney in that same period was decidedly broader in theological and liturgical practice how and why did melbourne move in one direction while sydney in the other this study suggests that the answers are to be found in four vital contributors local churches evangelical societies theological colleges and diocesan bishops for three broad periods of history between 1847 and 1937 the presence of these four contributors is uncovered described and evaluated for the diocese of melbourne evangelical activism theological reflection and leadership are each shown in their contemporary contexts to help us understand how people with gospel passion sought to respond faithfully to their times this is the question of vision leadership and strategy at the heart of this study what makes for long term evangelical continuity over a hundred year period the historical separation between judaism and christianity is often figured as a clearly defined break of a single entity into two separate religions following this model there would have been one religion known as judaism before the birth of christ which then took on a hybrid identity even before its subsequent division certain beliefs and practices of this composite would have been identifiable as christian or jewish in border lines however daniel boyarin makes a striking case for a very different way of thinking about the historical development that is the partition of judaeo christianity there were no characteristics or features that could be described as uniquely jewish or christian in late antiquity boyarin argues rather jesus following jews and jews who did not follow jesus lived on a cultural map in which beliefs such as that in a second divine being and practices such as keeping kosher or maintaining the sabbath were widely and variably distributed the ultimate distinctions between judaism and christianity were imposed from above by border makers heresiologists anxious to construct a discrete identity for christianity by defining some beliefs and practices as christian and others as jewish or heretical they moved ideas behaviors and people to one side or another of an artificial border and boyarin significantly contends invented the very notion of religion
