entrepreneurs are now internationalising and many more are likely to internationalise in the future yet most small firms expand in an opportunistic fashion because entrepreneurs seldom have the time and resources to gather reliable data about opportunities in foreign countries. Leo Paul Dana has conducted extensive international field research with a view to compiling key information on the business environment throughout Pacific Asia. Thus the book is not just another how-to guide; it reflects what is happening in an important region of our global economy. With this book, businessmen and business analysts, investors, academics, and business students will gain invaluable insights into the conditions and opportunities for enterprise in these countries in this region.

Women-owned businesses are the fastest growing segment of new business start-ups, and Black women's businesses are a larger share of Black-owned businesses than white women's businesses are of all white firms. Most studies compare men's and women's businesses, but few examine differences among women. This book, first published in 2000, makes a significant contribution not only to the literature on entrepreneurial business but also to the experiences of African American women.

Women are now leading companies and other enterprises in significant numbers in developing countries as well as the Western world. This set examines the specific ways in which entrepreneurial women create success and considers how the growing prevalence of female entrepreneurs will change the world. This two-volume work provides balanced and thorough coverage of women entrepreneurs in multicultural and international contexts as well as in the Western world. Entrepreneurial Women: New Management and Leadership Models explores how women everywhere are empowering themselves socially and economically through entrepreneurship and business ownership. The contributors consider how discrimination against women in the workplace can contribute to the inspiration to become business owners in the first place and document the experiences of African American women entrepreneurs as well as women in distinct settings such as China, Africa, rural Jamaica, and Silicon Valley. The work draws on empirical studies, data sets, case studies, and descriptions of career trajectories to portray the realities of women entrepreneurs today. Readers will understand the distinctive challenges and opportunities involved with the entrepreneurship process for women-owned businesses, grasp how women have overcome their disadvantages in getting funding and accessing capital, and learn about the unique management and leadership style of women entrepreneurs.

This 15-volume set of previously out-of-print titles examines many aspects of women and business encompassing such areas as women's access to managerial positions, positions within trade unions, inequality, family life, role in family businesses, and entrepreneurship. It is a remarkable collection and a vital business reference source.
