islam in india as elsewhere continues to be seen as a remainder in its refusal to conform to national and international secular modern norms such a general perception has also had a tremendous impact on the muslims of the indian subcontinent who as individuals and communities have been shaped and transformed over centuries of socio political and historical processes by eroding their world view and steadily erasing their life worlds this book traces the spectral presence of islam across narratives to note that difference and diversity demographic as well as cultural can be espoused rather than excised or exorcized focusing on malabar home to the mappila muslim community in kerala south india and drawing mostly on malayalam sources the author investigates the question of islam from various angles by constituting an archive comprising popular administrative academic and literary discourses the author contends that an uncritical insistence on unity has led to a formation in which minor subjects embody an excess of identity in contrast to the hindu citizen whose identity seemingly coincides with the national this has led to muslims being the source of a deep seated anxiety for secular nationalism and the targets of a resurgent hindutva in that they expose the fault lines of a geographically and socio culturally unified nation an interdisciplinary study of islam in india from the south indian context this book will be of interest to scholars of modern indian history political science literary and cultural studies and islamic studies indian muslims form the largest ethnic minority within singapore s otherwise largely malay muslim community despite its size and historic importance however singaporean indian muslims have received little attention by scholarship and have also felt side lined by singapore s malay dominated muslim institutions since the 1980s demands for a better representation of indian muslims and access to religious services have intensified while there has been a concomitant debate over who has the right to speak for indian muslims this book traces the negotiations and contestations over indian muslim difference in singapore and examines the conditions that have given rise to these debates despite considerable differences existing within the putative indian muslim community the way this community is imagined is surprisingly uniform through discussions of the importance of ethnic difference for social and religious divisions among singaporean indian muslims the role of culture and race in debates about popular religion the invocation of language and history in negotiations with the wider malay muslim context and the institutional setting in which contestations of indian muslim difference take place this book argues that these debates emerge from the structural tensions resulting from the intersection of race and religion in the public organization of islam in singapore dr thomas dahnhardt deals with the evolution of the indian lineage of the naqshbandiyya also called mujaddidiyya to study the spiritual symbiosis between the hindu and muslim communities he surveys various masters of the tradition the establishment of a new khanaqah and the emergence and methodology of the hindu offshoot of the mujaddidiyya mazhariyya
