An inspiration for managers, leaders, and everybody who is interested in Enzo Ferrari's life. Born 1898 in the northern Italian city of Modena, Enzo Ferrari lived his dream and founded the world's most famous sports car manufacturer. This book analyzes how he achieved his goals by what are considered to be modern concepts or were leadership theories: emotional intelligence, business ethics, client orientation, and sustainability. Already guiding principles of business in the beginning of the last century in his own words and drawing several parallels to Italian history, he thought he was living in the wrong time but taking off his commendatore's sunglasses, this book presents him as a surprisingly modern leader who consciously or not acted conform to the latest business and leadership models confirmed by key decisions of his company, including the racing team. Therefore, the book not only uses racing decisions and car development as examples, including many photos, but sets them in relation to his personal business philosophy. Full color edition.

In a field dominated by books that focus exclusively on the perspective of business in large corporations or that assume that business has a moral deficiency in need of reform, Al Gini and Alexei Marcoux offers students and business people alike a concise guide to what everyone ought to do when doing business. Where other books are organized topically, Gini and Marcoux look at the moral features of business that recur across topical areas, stressing the considerations that bear on business people, whether they be corporate functionaries, principals in family businesses, or solo entrepreneurs who do it all end to end. They present to students the essential concepts, ideas, and issues involved in ethics in business and emphasize the individual acting person and what it means to have character and integrity when doing business.
