christianity today 2020 book award award of merit theology ethics outreach 2020 recommended resource of the year theology and biblical studies the question of what makes life worth living is more vital now than ever in today s pluralistic postsecular world universal values are dismissed as mere matters of private opinion and the question of what constitutes flourishing life for ourselves our neighbors and the planet as a whole is neglected in our universities our churches and our culture at large although we increasingly have technology to do almost anything we have little sense of what is truly worth accomplishing in this provocative new contribution to public theology world renowned theologian miroslav volf named america s new public intellectual by scot mcknight on his jesus creed blog and matthew croasmun explain that the intellectual tools needed to rescue us from our present malaise and meet our new cultural challenge are the tools of theology a renewal of theology is crucial to help us articulate compelling visions of the good life find our way through the maze of contested questions of value and answer the fundamental question of what makes life worth living many christians have difficulty finding practical connections between faith and daily life sermons sunday schools and study groups rarely address the issues situations and responsibilities of ordinary life and theology seems detached from everyday concerns in redeeming the routines robert banks locates the reasons for the gap between faith and daily life he then identifies activities that should be examined from a christian perspective and suggests specific ways in which individuals and churches can bring their faith to bear on such matters now back in print offers a theological narrative of the creator spirit as a story with four continuing episodes creation grace the christ event and the church back cover andrea vestrucci presents a pioneering analysis of martin luther s de servo arbitrio one of the most challenging works of christian theology from the hidden god to predestination from justification to ontology from logic to aesthetics the author explores a paradigm shifting perspective on theological language anthropological theory can radically transform our understanding of human experience and offer theologians an introduction to the interdisciplinary nature between anthropology and christianity both sociocultural anthropology and theology have made fundamental contributions to our understanding of human experience and the place of humanity in the world but can these two disciplines despite the radical differences that separate them work together to transform their thinking on these topics robbins argues that they can to make this point he draws on key theological discussions of atonement eschatology interruption passivity and judgement to rethink important anthropological debates about such topics as ethical life radical change the ways people live in time agency gift giving and the nature of humanity the result is both a major reconsideration of important aspects of anthropological theory through theological categories and a series of careful readings of influential theologians such as moltmann pannenberg jünger and dalferth informed by rich ethnographic accounts of the lives of christians from around the world in conclusion robbins draws on contemporary discussions of secularism to interrogate the secular foundations of anthropology and suggests that the differences between anthropology and theology surrounding this topic can provide a foundation for transformative dialogue between them rather than being an obstacle to it written as a work of interdisciplinary anthropological theorizing this book also offers theologians an introduction to some of the most important ground covered by burgeoning field of the anthropology of christianity while guiding anthropologists into core areas of theological discussion although theoretically ambitious the book is clearly argued throughout and written to be accessible to all readers in the social sciences theology and religious studies interested in the place of religion in social life and human experience what are the poetics of everyday life what can they teach us about god art music dance and writing can certainly be poetic but so can such diverse pastimes as fishing skiing or attending sports events any and all activities that satisfy our fundamental need for play for celebration and for ritual says william dyrness are inherently poetic and in poetic theology he demonstrates that all such activities are places where god is active in the world all of humanity's creative efforts dyrness points out testify to our intrinsic longing for joy and delight and our deep desire to connect with others with the created order and especially with the creator this desire is rooted in the presence and calling of god in and through the good creation with extensive reflection on aesthetics in spirituality worship and community development dyrness's poetic theology will be useful for all who seek fresh and powerful new ways to communicate the gospel in contemporary society william dyrness's bold invitation to a poetic theology shaped by scripture tradition and imagination one luring us toward a fuller participation in beauty than argument or concept alone allow reminds us that truth itself is beautiful to behold and poetic to the core if poetry is in its deepest reflex an intensification of life then dyrness's call for a poetic theology is one we ignore at our peril reminding us that faithful living is not only about proper thinking but also and perhaps more properly about the texture of our living and the quality of our loving marks burrows and over newton theological school makes a strong case for aesthetics as one of the avenues used by god to draw human beings near to him and his glory a wonderful journey through reformed spirituality and a wake up call for reformed theology cornelius van der kooi free university amsterdam bass and dykstra have written extensively and collaboratively on christian practices arguing that the what christians have done faithfully over time constitutes a life giving way of life and that this living of christianity is more primary to what it means to be christian than doctrinal confession that our confessions spring from faithful living rather than the other way around this book contains numerous essays that take up the question of christian practices and ministry the preparation of ministers theological education etc in a post enlightenment understanding of the relationship of practice and head knowledge because the book is the result of a community conversation it doesn't have a clear thesis but it models its conviction that reflection on theology arises from community conversation around our life in discipleship together an extremely helpful beginning to a conversation about ministry practices of faith clergy preparation etc as the time has come to integrate the kind of learning that comes in the classroom with the kind that only comes from living the faith with others amazon com ladd's magisterial work on new testament theology has well served scores of seminary students since 1974 now this comprehensive standard evangelical text has been carefully revised by hagner to include an update of ladd's survey of the history of the field of new testament theology an augmented bibliography and an entirely new subject index an expert in contemporary theology shows how the doctrines of the triune god and the divine attributes shape our understanding of the christian life publishers weekly starred review seasoned pastor and church leader will willimon excels at creating thought provoking accessible books for working pastors and seminarians in aging he takes a theologically rich look at numerous aspects of growing old drawing on scripture literature current research and his experiences as an aging adult willimon reflects on aging as a spiritual journey he explores the challenging realities as well as the rewarding joys of growing old and shows pastors how to help their congregants grow old gracefully and in good christian hope willimon also offers practical advice on helping church members as they encounter retirement aging caring for the aging loss bereavement and finding faith in the last quarter of life this eloquent delightfully christian perspective on aging will be of interest to all who care for aging souls not only pastors but also chaplains and other ministers in hospitals hospices and extended care facilities about the series pastors are called to help people navigate the profound mysteries of being human from birth to death and everything in between this series edited by leading pastoral theologian jason byassee provides pastors and pastors in training with rich theological reflection on the various seasons that make up a human life helping them minister with greater wisdom and joy a genuinely fresh theological project that accounts for the interdisciplinary nature of religion and its discontents

the secular world may have thought it was done with theology but theology was not done with it recent decades have seen a resurgence of religion on the social and political scene which have driven thinkers across many disciplines to grapple with the christian theological inheritance of the modern world adam kotsko provides a unique guide to this fraught terrain the title essay establishes a fresh and unexpected redefinition of theology and its complex and often polemical relationship with its sister discipline of philosophy subsequent essays build on this framework from three different perspectives in the first part kotsko demonstrates the continued vibrancy of christian theology as a creative and constructive pursuit outside the walls of the church showing that theological concepts can underwrite a powerful critique of the modern world the second approaches christian theology from the perspective of a range of contemporary philosophers showing how philosophical thought is drawn to theology even despite itself the concluding section is devoted to the unexpected theological roots of the modern world system making a case that the interplay of state and economy and the structure of modern racial oppression both build on theological patterns of thought kotsko's book ultimately shows that theology is not a scholarly game or an edifying spiritual discipline but a world shaping force of great power lives are at stake when we do theology and if we don't do it someone else will

the ground breaking essays by more than two dozen contributors in this book are divided into five sections biblical witness theological challenges insights from ecofeminism insights from indigenous people and ethical implications in this engaging text darren marks provides a refreshing introduction to christian faith that will be of special interest to university and seminary students innovative in his organization marks explores seven key doctrines and highlights the profound interconnections among them in a way that points us beyond the mere theological formulations to the living god of the bible engaging academic discussions of the past and the present marks contextualizes these doctrines and shows their meaning for the day to day life of a faith community including illustrative narrative callouts and study questions this book ultimately aims to inspire illuminate and encourage christians toward a vital and relevant life of worship discipleship and mission dan stiver has crafted an engaging one volume introduction to christian beliefs based on his experience teaching introductory theology courses while describing how traditional theology came to be he explains for both undergraduates and graduate students how theology is already a part of their life of faith as he examines traditional theological issues and such current topics as globalization and ecology stiver treats theology as a living dynamic activity employing useful case studies his groundbreaking approach helps students understand what theology is and shows them that they are participants in creating an ongoing vigorous theology that will remain at the center of their faith for the rest of their lives
