substitutions michael marshall smith michael marshall smith recalls this story came about in the simplest way the way i always enjoy most something happening in real life that makes you think what if our household gets a lot of its food via an online delivery service and one day when i was unpacking what had just been dropped at our house i gradually realised there was something not quite right about the contents of the bags there s two things that are strange about that experience the first is that given that every household is likely to buy at least some things in common you don t realise straight away that you ve been given the wrong shopping you don t immediately think this is wrong more like this is weird the second is how personal it is gaining accidental access to this very tangible evocation of some other family's life you can't help but wonder about the people the food was really destined for in real life i just called up the delivery guy and got it sorted out but in fiction you might tackle things slightly differently out back garry kilworth out back was written for a group of friends kilworth recalls who appear as characters in the story under their initials as i do myself those who know me well will recognise the protagonists iken is a real village on the edge of the marshes behind Snape Maltings in Suffolk two years ago i wandered along the periphery of the reed beds which stretch down towards the coast as a green and golden sea the waves created by the winds that blow across the flatlands looking at the church that sits on a knoll above the marshes i thought this is a perfect setting for a horror story and so City of the Dog John Langan this story arose from my desire to see what i could do with the figure of the ghoul reveals Langan and as i've tried to indicate within the narrative i drew inspiration both from H.P. Lovecraft Pickman's Model and Caitlín R. Kiernan's Daughter of Hounds the miserable years in New York State's capital though were mine alone

Horizons of the Future Science Fiction Utopian Imagination and the Politics of Education examines the relationship between science fiction education and social change in the 21st century global capitalism is ecologically unsustainable and ethically indefensible time is running out to alter the course of history if humanity is to have hope of a livable future beyond the next century however alternatives are possible offering much more equality care justice joy and hope than the established order popular culture and schools are key sites of struggles to imagine such alternatives drawing on critical theory cultural studies and sociology Slater articulates the promising connection between science fiction and the future of education he offers cutting edge engagement with themes perspectives and modes of imagination in science fiction that can be mobilized politically and pedagogically to envision and enact critical forms of education that cultivate new utopian ways of relating to self society and the future this thought provoking book will be of interest to scholars and students in the social sciences and education

Over the past century and a half the voices and bodies of animals have been used by scientists and music experts as a benchmark for measures of natural difference Animal Musicalities traces music's taxonomies from Darwin to digital bird guides to show how animal song has become the starting point for enduring evaluations of species races and cultures by examining the influential efforts made by a small group of men and women to define human diversity in relation to animal voices this book raises profound questions about the creation of modern human identity and the foundations of modern humanism
