this timely and ambitious volume a product of close research collaboration with the united nations multi country office for micronesia is conceived as a holistic journey across various domains of progress in a region that despite fundamental common traits remains vast and diverse pacific island countries and territories picts have too often been identified with elements of vulnerability whether these be social economic or environmental in nature while these factors cannot be overlooked this volume aims to showcase not only the long standing and emerging challenges but perhaps more importantly the opportunities the resilience the resourcefulness and the ambition that local socioeconomic development patterns in the pacific already encompass beyond picts themselves we hope that the analyses collected in this book will contribute to highlighting the global significance of the human nature nexus in the current anthropocene often captured in the concept of small islands big oceans the importance of the region and its islands and peoples transcends the geographical remoteness and small size of many picts delving into pacific spaces from a variety of disciplinary perspectives and interpretations this book looks at how the anthropological and architectural can be connected the contributors to this book architectural practitioners architectural and spatial design theorists anthropologists and historians show not only how new theoretical perspectives can arise out of comparing aspects specific to one discipline with their equivalents of another but also demonstrate how a space of emergence is created for something that goes beyond both enhancing both fields of potentialities originally published in 1924 this book forms part of a three volume study on the socio political systems of polynesian islands near the equator parallel texts in english and samoan the pacific islands are feeling the effects of globalisation free trade in sugar and garments is threatening two of fiji s key industries at the same time other opportunities are emerging labour migration is growing in importance and pacific governments are calling for more access to australia s labour market fiji has joined samoa tonga tuvalu and kiribati as a remittance economy with thousands of its citizens working overseas meantime papua new guinea and solomon islands grapple with an older kind of globalisation in which overseas companies exploit mineral and forest resources the pacific islands confront unique problems of governance in this era of globalisation the modern democratic state often fits awkwardly with traditional ways of doing politics in that part of the world just as often politicians in the pacific exploit tradition or invent it to serve modern political purposes the contributors to this volume examine pacific globalisation and governance from a wide range of perspectives they come from papua new guinea solomon islands hawaii the federated states of micronesia samoa fiji new zealand and jamaica as well as australia publisher s description
