this book deals with curriculum issues and problems and one of its aims is to help practising teachers to clarify their own theory and practice in relation to the curriculum the contributors look at three popular theories or sets of assumptions held by teachers the child centred view of education the subject centred or knowledge centred view and the society centred view each of these views is incomplete on its own but each has something to contribute in planning a curriculum as a whole and the authors emphasize that a comprehensive theory of curriculum planning would take into account the individual nature of the pupil and also recognize the social value of education this kind of comprehensive curriculum planning has been described as the situation centred curriculum based on the idea that schools should be concerned with preparing the young for the world as it will be when they leave school one of the purposes of education is to develop a child s autonomy he or she must learn to cope with the variety of situations which will face him or her in society thus many different approaches must be employed in establishing a basis for the complex task of curriculum planning the book draws on the disciplines of philosophy psychology history and sociology to suggest new approaches to curriculum objectives and evaluation it considers the theoretical bases of curriculum models practical issues of planning evaluation and pedagogy and discusses some urgent contemporary questions about the politics and control of the curriculum this book offers a model to bridge the differences between political theorists and social scientists focusing on deliberative practices theory has been used widely in the field of second language writing second language writing specialists teachers researchers and administrators have yet to have an open and sustained conversation about what theory is how it works and more important how to practice theory practicing theory in second language writing features fourteen essays by distinguished scholars in second language writing who explore various aspects of theoretical work that goes on in the field this introductory text explains and places in an historical context the development theories behind contemporary debates such as globalization the author describes and explains how approaches to development have changed over time and how approaches vary spatially the interest of the writers of these essays in the intricacies and implications of translation in the middle ages or of the translation of medieval texts in the modern period has resulted in a diverse and intellectually stimulating volume the papers in this volume written in either english french or spanish approach translation from a wide variety of perspectives and offer a range of interpretations of the concept of translation the volume contains essays ranging in time from the anglo saxon period to the present and in topic from medieval recipe books to arguments in favour of women administering the sacrament languages studied include non european languages as well as latin and numerous european vernaculars as both source and target languages as any translator or student of translation quickly becomes aware it is impossible to divorce language from culture all the contributors to this volume struggle with the complexities of translation as a cultural act even when the focus would seem to be specifically linguistic it is these complexities which lend the study of the theory and practice of translation in the middle ages its enduring fascination
