rumi is perhaps the only example in world literature of a devoted prose writer who suddenly burst forth into poetry during middle age to become a truly great mystical poet for all time this book a long overdue reckoning of his life and work begins with a description and examination of the living conditions in 13th century persia building on this context afzal iqbal proceeds to fully analyze the formative period of rumi's life leading up to 1261 when he began the monumental work of writing the mathnawi toward the end of the book iqbal more generally investigates rumi's thought and includes translations of those portions of the mathnawi that have been hitherto unavailable in english combining an unparalleled familiarity with the source material a total and critical understanding of the subject and a powerful and readable prose style this is an extraordinary study of a truly remarkable poet and mystic here is a work breathing truth offering both to the lovers of rumi and to those not yet familiar with the great 13th century sufi poet and mystic the essence of his teaching condensed in less than 300 quotations all those quotations are based on the french translations by eva de vitray meyerovitch from the original persian the book has a foreword by the current spiritual leader of the mevlevi order originally founded by rumi and more often known as the whirling dervishes this gives it a particular authenticity organised along sixteen themes each developed in the kaleidoscopic manner of rumi the book allows the readers to become acquainted directly with rumi's message without another person's subjective interpretation it also allows the readers to find their way back to the source of the quotations thanks to a thorough work of documentation however this is no dry scholarly work like the rose of the sufis hidden in the heart of this book as in their teaching breathing truth has a subtle fragrance which cannot but entrance the readers almost without their knowledge
