this book is concerned with the relationship between semantics and surface structure and in particular with the way in which each is mapped into the other jim miller argues that semantic and syntactic structure require different representations and that semantic structure is far more complex than many analysts realise he argues further that semantic structure should be based on notions of location and movement the need for a semantic component of greater complexity is demonstrated by an examination of prepositions particles adverbs and verb prefixes and is shown to accord with cross language and historical facts the volume goes on to consider the sort of rules that are required to map semantic structures onto syntax semantics and syntax tackles fundamental issues and draws together many of the key concepts of traditional grammar and formal linguistics the general framework for handling syntax semantics and morphology that it outlines is perhaps a controversial one but it will be recognized as challenging and original focusing on text rather than on isolated sentences this collection examines recent computer programs designed to aid in understanding natural language generation all the systems concentrate on the semantics pragmatics and common sense knowledge necessary to understand summarize and learn new word and phrase definitions from text special emphasis is given to generating linguistic descriptions from perceptual inputs issues covered include the representation of episodic and semantic knowledge to support text understanding the generation and verification of inferences from text story understanding and the production of narrative summaries and the interactions of syntax with semantic and common sense hopper thompson s 1980 seminal article on transitivity brought forth renewed interest in the passive and other correlates of transitivity langacker 1982 and others working with the cognitive grammar cg framework argue that the passive voice is an independent construction and that it is not a reorganization of the active voice language specific problems for the german passive include the use of the dative case to mark certain passive participants passives formed from verbs and preposition combinations and impersonal passives this study provides a semantic analysis of all the types of passive constructions found in german and shows that these construction types are related a corpus of written data is used and the focus is on radial categories of meaning in modern german the way in which we understand the concept of intelligence is rooted in metaphor and metonymy this book explores the motivation for some of the lexemes in this semantic field across the history of the english language considering the range of cognitive mechanisms and cultural factors that can inform metaphorical mappings this long awaited revision offers a comprehensive introduction to natural language understanding with developments and research in the field today building on the effective framework of the first edition the new edition gives the same balanced coverage of syntax semantics and discourse and offers a uniform framework based on feature based context free grammars and chart parsers used for syntactic and semantic processing thorough treatment of issues in discourse and context dependent interpretation is also provided in addition this title offers coverage of two entirely new subject areas first the text features a new chapter on statistically based methods using large corpora second it includes an appendix on speech recognition and spoken language understanding also the information on semantics that was covered in the first edition has been largely expanded in this edition to include an emphasis on compositional interpretation 0805303340b04062001 over the past few decades the book series linguistische arbeiten linguistic studies comprising over 500 volumes has made a significant contribution to the development of linguistic theory both in germany and internationally the series will continue to deliver new impulses for research and maintain the central insight of linguistics that progress can only be made in acquiring new knowledge about human languages both synchronically and diachronically by closely combining empirical and theoretical analyses to this end we invite submission of high quality linguistic studies from all the central areas of general linguistics and the linguistics of individual languages which address topical questions discuss new data and advance the development of linguistic theory
