this treatise of historical methodology originally published in 1950 is based upon a liberal conception of history which excludes no narrator of past events from the ranks of historians it defines history as the accurate story which preserves the memory of the past experiences of human societies the function of history determines its method and provides the answer to the question how secure is our knowledge of the past in the author s view history is empirical and its results are for ever provisional the relative merits of dogmatism and scepticism are examined and several interpretations among english historians are scrutinized excerpt from the writing of history an introduction to historical method this volume is not a revised edition of my outline of historical method it is an entirely new work it was written for college students who are beginning their studies in historical research for teachers of history who have had no critical historical training and for students of history who are hoping to find in private study some compensation for opportunities not enjoyed in college this book does not aspire to fill the place of bernheim s lehrbuch but rather to guide the student through his first steps in research and to prepare him for the study of bernheim in a word it is an introduction to historical method about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works no discipline has been more praised or more criticized than the writing of history ciceron claimed that history teaches men how to live aristotle denied it the very name of science and regarded poetry as the higher wisdom at various times history has been assigned a commanding or a demeaning status in the hierarchy of sciences today one can admire the increasing precision and sophistication of the methods used by historians on the other hand thucydides history of the pezoponiesan war still serves as the ideal model of how to reconstruct the historical past even those who deny the possibility of an objective reconstruction of the past would themselves like to be recorded by historians objectively or not dislike of history and fear of its verdict are not incompatible with reverence and awe for its practitioners the historians so man's attitude to history is ambiguous the controversy about history continues widely differing issues are at stake historians themselves however are the least engaged in the struggle rarely does a historian decide to open the door of his study and join in the melee about the meaning of history more often he slams it shut and returns to his studies oblivious of the fact that with the passage of time the gap between his scientific work and its audience might widen the historian does not shun the battle he merely chooses his own battleground
