it is a widely read reference book that deals with the relevant topics of the india s geographical landscape in a systematic and comprehensive manner updated current events and statistics form a major part of this edition varied topics covered are the resources of india different types of irrigation cropping patterns transport and public distribution system and food security disasters and government initiatives it is also being increasingly referred by the graduates and postgraduates of the subject and by the researchers and academicians

this book is a result of my deep concern for the brutal realities that our athletes face and realities that the public rarely hears about i felt compelled to write this book because the conditions that our sportspeople endure defy not just the laws of sportsmanship but the fundamental principles of human rights this book is my way of exposing these violations the right to dignity to fair treatment to a life free from exploitation these are rights that our athletes are denied this book is also a tribute to those forgotten athletes the ones who gave their all for the nation only to be discarded when they could no longer compete at the highest level my hope is that this book will serve as a wake up call a rallying cry for change the wooden dhow with its characteristic lateen sail is an appropriate icon for the early trading world of the indian ocean it was based on free trade unhindered by monopolies or superpower domination and pre dated globalisation by thousands of years it carried a motley crew of sailors traders and passengers and many commodities but the dhow was not merely an inanimate transporter of goods and people but an animated means of social interaction the dhow was at the mercy of the seasonal monsoons but mercifully this very fact multiplied opportunities for social interaction between the sailors and traders with their hosts around the rim of the indian ocean giving birth to cosmopolitan populations and cultures the dhow was thus a vehicle for a genuine dialog between civilisations the global world of the indian ocean had matured by the fifteenth century islam was the most widespread religion along its rim but it had spread not by the sword but through peaceful commerce the heroes of this world were not the continental empires but a string of small port city states from kilwa in east africa to melaka in malaysia nor was their influence confined to the littoral but penetrated deep into continental hinterlands economically socially and culturally into this world two major incursions occurred from opposite directions the chinese expeditions in the early fifteenth century and the portuguese at the end of it the contrast could not have been more stark between the indian ocean tradition of free trade that the chinese espoused despite their enormous strength and the vasco da gama epoch of armed mercantilism that ultimately led to colonial domination this sweeping and vividly written popular history of the dhow cultures contains dozens of color illustrations and many maps and is set to become the benchmark history of the early indian ocean in this important study abu lughod presents a groundbreaking reinterpretation of global economic evolution arguing that the modern world economy had its roots not in the sixteenth century as is widely supposed but in the thirteenth century economy a system far different from the european world system which emerged from it using the city as the working unit of analysis before european hegemony provides a new paradigm for understanding the evolution of world systems by tracing the rise of a system that at its peak in the opening decades of the 14th century involved a vast region stretching between northwest europe and china writing in a clear and lively style abu lughod explores the reasons for the eventual decay of this system and the rise of european hegemony
