globalization and inequalities places globalisation difference and gender at the heart of social theory and demonstrates the powerful capacity of complexity theory to enable innovative social analysis this volume studies the relation between globalization and inequalities in emerging societies by linking area and global studies aiming at a new theory of inequality beyond the nation state and beyond eurocentrism why national and international equality matter and what we can do to ensure a fairer world in the globalization of inequality distinguished economist and policymaker françois bourguignon examines the complex and paradoxical links between a vibrant world economy that has raised the living standard of over half a billion people in emerging nations such as china india and brazil and the exponentially increasing inequality within countries exploring globalization s role in the evolution of inequality bourguignon takes an original and truly international approach to the decrease in inequality between nations the increase in inequality within nations and the policies that might moderate inequality s negative effects demonstrating that in a globalized world it becomes harder to separate out the factors leading to domestic or international inequality bourguignon examines each trend through a variety of sources and looks at how these inequalities sometimes balance each other out or reinforce one another factoring in the most recent economic crisis bourguignon investigates why inequality in some countries has dropped back to levels that have not existed for several decades and he asks if these should be considered in the context of globalization or if they are in fact specific to individual nations ultimately bourguignon argues that it will be up to countries in the developed and developing world to implement better policies even though globalization limits the scope for some potential redistributive instruments an informed and original contribution to the current debates about inequality this book will be essential reading for anyone who is interested in the future of the world economy

how has globalization changed social inequality in this groundbreaking book globalization and inequalities sylvia walby examines the many changing forms of social inequality and their intersectionalities at both country and global levels she shows how the contest between different modernities and conceptions of progress shape the present and future globalization and inequalities is essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students and academics of sociology social theory gender studies and politics and international relations geography economics and law winner of the bruno kreisky prize karl renner institut a financial times best economics book of the year an economist best book of the year a livemint best book of the year one of the world's leading economists of inequality branko milanovic presents a bold new account of the dynamics that drive inequality on a global scale drawing on vast data sets and cutting edge research he explains the benign and malign forces that make inequality rise and fall within and among nations he also reveals who has been helped the most by globalization who has been held back and what policies might tilt the balance toward economic justice the data milanovic provides offer a clearer picture of great economic puzzles and his bold theorizing chips away at tired economic orthodoxies the economist milanovic has written an outstanding book informative wide ranging scholarly imaginative and commendably brief as you would expect from one of the world's leading experts on this topic milanovic has added significantly to important recent works by thomas piketty anthony atkinson and françois bourguignon ever rising inequality looks a highly unlikely combination with any genuine democracy it is to the credit of milanovic's book that it brings out these dangers so clearly along with the important global successes of the past few decades martin wolf financial times bachelor thesis from the year 2016 in the subject politics topic globalization political economics grade 1.7 university of mannheim language english abstract in this paper we will try to determine if any of the theoretical camps are right and if so which one we will first review current literature to clarify which arguments frame the respective pro and con attitudes towards globalization this will include theoretical approaches as well as previous studies done in the field we will then empirically analyze the issue ourselves with the newest available data to do so we will first need to establish practicable definitions of globalization poverty and inequality and then try to find relationships between these factors lastly we will interpret our results to conclude we will summarize our findings and discuss any limitations of our research inequality is becoming an urgent issue of world politics at the end of the twentieth century globalization is not only exacerbating the gap between rich and poor in the world but is also further dividing those states and peoples that have political power and influence from those without while the powerful shape more global rules and norms about investment military security environmental and social policy and the like the less powerful are becoming rule takers often of rules or norms they cannot or will not enforce the consequences for world politics are profound the evidence presented in inequality globalization and world politics suggests that globalization is creating sharper more urgent problems for states and international institutions to deal with yet at the same time investigations into eight core areas of world politics suggest that growing inequality is reducing the capacity of governments and existing international organizations to manage these problems effectively the eight areas surveyed include international order international law welfare and social policy global justice regionalism and multilateralism environmental protection gender equality military power and security with special reference to developing countries since u s president reagan and u k prime minister thatcher a major ideology under the name of economic science has been expanded worldwide that claims that the best policies to stimulate human development are those that reduce the role of the state in economic and social lives privatizing public services and public enterprises deregulating the mobility of capital and labor eliminating protectionism and reducing public social protection this ideology called neoliberalism has guided the globalization of economic activity and become the conventional wisdom in international agencies and institutions such as the imf world bank world trade organization and the technical agencies of the united nations including the who reproduced in the washington consensus in the united states and the brussels consensus in the european union this ideology has guided policies widely accepted as the only ones possible and advisable this book assembles a series of articles that challenge that ideology written by well known scholars these articles question each of the tenets of neoliberal doctrine showing how the policies guided by this ideology have adversely affected human development in the countries where they have been implemented what causes global inequality why should we be concerned about it is inequality getting worse or are there signs of improvement and progress this critical analysis of the current state of global inequality pushes beyond ideological prejudice and simplistic explanations to address these important questions offering a distinctive response to the many challenges in the area the text presents a holistic account of inequality by taking a multidisciplinary approach incorporating perspectives from sociology politics and economics recognising the influence of historical trends on inequality today and viewing inequality from a global perspective as well as a national one drawing on major theories of inequality and up to date evidence robert j holton guides readers through the complex issues at hand making this text a valuable resource for students of sociology global studies politics and development studies social inequality is a worldwide phenomenon globalization has exacerbated and alleviated inequality over the past twenty five years this volume offers analytical and comparative insights from current case studies of social inequality in more than ten countries within all the major regions of the world contributors provide an assessment of the overall social globalization phenomenon in the global world as well as an outlook of transformations of global social inequality in the future this book will be a timely addition for students and scholars of globalization studies social inequality sociology and cultural and social anthropology getting globalization right explores political and economic changes in seven new democracies that have in common both a movement toward greater integration with the world economy and the challenges posed by persistent or even increasing domestic economic inequalities the authors argue that without effective national policies to dampen the effects of globalization the short term impact of opening the economy has a negative effect on levels of poverty and inequality in a more positive vein however and without minimizing the difficulties involved they identify the types of social policies that can blunt or counter these negative effects they also suggest that international governance will have a growing influence on how globalization affects individual nations the up to date empirically rich case studies in the book cover the experiences of brazil mexico the philippines south africa south korea spain and turkey this publication sets out an empirical analysis of the impact of economic liberalisation and globalisation on inequality poverty and development including recent trends in economic growth income distribution and global inequalities and the comparative experiences of countries that have pursued different economic policies

we review the debate on the association of financial globalization with inequality we show that the within country distributional impact of capital account liberalization is context specific and that different types of flows have different distributional effects their overall impact depends on the composition of capital flows their interaction and on broader economic and institutional conditions a comprehensive set of policies macroeconomic financial and labor and product market specific is important for facilitating wider sharing of the benefits of financial essay from the year 2010 in the subject politics topic globalization political economics grade 1 7 king s college london language english abstract the period from the end of the world war ii to the mid 1970s saw world wide sustained and high economic growth within a generation western european society was transformed from predominantly agrarian to post industrial latin america asia and africa also were heading towards higher growth rates during the 1980s a new period of integration of national economies led to the intensification of international economic interconnectedness and developing economies were expected to overcome the between country income gap through openness growth link this was seen as the manifestation of neoliberalism as new forms of international economic relations emerged such as industrialisation and the new international division of labour however as recent studies point towards increasing world poverty and inequality scholars have re examined the validity of the neoliberal argument after years of implementing prescribed reforms some developing countries and regions such as sub saharan africa have not experienced the expected growth chapter 2 summarizes the implications of the policy paradigm inspired by the washington consensus chapter 3 identifies current trends in global poverty and inequality with attention to the different measures used to interpret world economic well being the next chapter analyses the openness growth inequality poverty nexus the final chapter seeks to recognize causes of poverty and inequality transmitted by the globalization process the factors of poverty and inequality path dependence are grouped in four categories economic openness and technological progress macroeconomic policies financialisation of the economy and international financial institutions members of the anti globalization movement will find the explanations given in this book insightful as will employees of international organizations due to the important policy messages the theoretical interest within the book will appeal to development economists and evolutionary economists and policymakers and politicians will find the explanations of the present failure of many small nations in the periphery invaluable book jacket there is growing concern in europe over the impact of globalization on high and evenly shared living standards these concerns have often surfaced in response to falling labor income shares in aggregate national income data however these data may tell little about the underlying distribution of incomes based on household disposable incomes while summary measures of income distributions also suggest that inequality has increased in most industrialized countries this development was very uneven and much less pronounced in euro area countries suggesting that broad phenomena such as trade liberalization and technological change may not be major drivers of inequality
