a growing number of universities and other educational institutions record videos of regularly scheduled classes and lectures to provide students with additional resources for their study however the video alone is not necessarily the same than a carefully prepared educational video the main issue is that they are typically not post processed in an editorial sense that is the videos often contain longer periods of silence or inactivity unnecessary repetitions spontaneous interaction with students or even corrections of prior false statements or mistakes furthermore there is often no summary or table of contents of the video unlike with educational videos that supplement a certain curriculum and are well scripted and edited thus the plain recording of a lecture is a good start but far from a good e learning resource this thesis describes a system that can close the gap between a plain video recording and useful e learning resource by producing automatic summaries and providing an interactive lecture browser that can visualize automatically extracted key phrases and their importance on an augmented time line the lecture browser depends on four tasks automatic speech recognition automatic extraction and ranking of key phrases extractive speech summarization and the visualization of the phrases and their salience these tasks as well as the contribution to the state of the art are described in detail and evaluated on a newly acquired corpus of academic spoken english the lmelectures a first user study shows that students using the lecture browser can solve a topic localization task about 29 faster than students that are provided with the video only this book sheds light on the fact that the proclamation of an emergency can be a legitimate constitutional method to take prompt preventative measures in protecting the interests of the society in times of grave crises however the exercise of emergency powers should not undermine a nation s commitment to democratic values such as maintaining the rule of law and upholding fundamental human rights the covid 19 pandemic has posed grave threats to the lives and health of individuals however since the constitutions of south asian nations do not permit the proclamation of an emergency on health grounds executives of these nations were constrained to rely among other things on ordinary legislation to tide over the threats posed by the pandemic although these statutes entrust the executive with extensive emergency powers they do not simultaneously stipulate any safeguards subjecting the exercise of such powers to a reliable system of checks and balances accordingly this book critically examines the exercise of emergency powers in the south asian nations to tide over threats posed by the covid 19 pandemic which had a profoundly adverse impact on the human rights of individuals such exercise of powers was consistent with the general tendency demonstrated by succeeding generations of the executives in these nations to use emergency situations as the convenient means for imposing long lasting limitations on the rights of individuals consequently this book identifies the flaws deficiencies and lacunae of the legal framework in these nations which permit the executive to assume unfettered power in the exercise of emergency measures at the expense of the liberty of individuals consequently based on these findings recommendations will be put forward for initiating reforms in these nations aimed at ensuring the maintenance of a delicate balance between the necessity to respond to grave threats and to simultaneously prevent undue intrusion on the fundamental human rights of individuals
