central to the repertoire of western art music since the 18th century the symphony has come to be regarded as one of the ultimate compositional challenges surprisingly heretofore there has been no truly extensive broad based treatment of the genre and the best of the existing studies are now several decades old in this five volume series a peter brown explores the symphony from its 18th century beginnings to the end of the 20th century synthesizing the enormous scholarly literature brown presents up to date overviews of the status of research discusses any important former or remaining problems of attribution illuminates the style of specific works and their contexts and samples early writings on their reception the symphonic repertoire provides an unmatched compendium of knowledge for the student teacher performer and sophisticated amateur the series is being launched with two volumes on the viennese symphony publisher s website

this book offers a concise view of the interaction of the amazonian fishes with their environment the sequence drives the reader from the formation of the amazon basin and its relationship with fish diversity and variability to the adaptive strategies the fishes have developed to face the environmental heterogeneity of the amazon the central part of the book addresses respiratory adjustments to the low oxygen content of the amazonian waters in all major fish groups the discussion covers the main anatomical morphological physiological and biochemical adjustments in water and air breathing fishes underdeveloping the amazon shows how different extractive economies have periodically enriched various dominant classes but progressively impoverished the entire region by disrupting both the amazon basin s ecology and human communities contending that traditional models of development based almost exclusively on the european and american experience of industrial production cannot apply to a regional economy founded on extraction stephen g bunker proposes a new model based on the use and depletion of energy values in natural resources as the key to understanding the disruptive forces at work in the basin
