china's war of resistance against japan as wwii is known in china was never about the defeat of japan alone china was also at war with itself between 1937 and 1949 a vicious revolutionary war between nationalists and communists divided by radically different views about china's future ravaged the country killing millions and laying waste to cities and the countryside the outcomes of these wars have shaped the country and the world since china at war focuses on this period examining the complex truth behind the propaganda of both east and west cambridge professor hans van de ven shows how the results of the fighting ended european imperialism in east asia restored china to its traditional position of regional centrality and gave the usa a decisive role in east asian politics in the process he argues it also triggered profound changes in warfare as important as the development of atomic weapons and gave the countryside a new social political and military significance through fascinating personal accounts and extensive scholarship china at war casts new light on this crucial period of history and harnesses contemporary art culture and ideology to illuminate world changing events the authors of this collection explore the main aspects of the chinese revolution in the crucial period of the 1920s such as the united front policy the development of communism institutional issues and social movements presents an account of the chinese civil war and what the communist victory meant to chinese society and the chinese people includes selections from the daily bulletins of the china information committee china's mid twentieth century wars pose extraordinary interpretive challenges the issue is not just that the chinese fought for such a long time from the marco polo bridge incident of july 1937 until the close of the korean war in 1953 across such vast territory as hans van de ven explains the greatest puzzles lie in understanding china's simultaneous external and internal wars much is at stake politically in how this story is told today in its official history and public commemorations the people's republic asserts chinese unity against japan during world war ii but this overwrites the era's stark divisions between communists and nationalists increasingly erasing the civil war from memory van de ven argues that the war with japan the civil war and its aftermath were in fact of a piece a singular process of conflict and political change reintegrating the communist uprising with the sino japanese war he shows how the communists took advantage of wartime to increase their appeal how fissures between the nationalists and communists affected anti japanese resistance and how the fractious coalition fostered conditions for revolution in the process the chinese invented an influential paradigm of war wherein the clausewitzian model of total war between well defined interstate enemies gave way to murky campaigns of national liberation involving diverse domestic and outside belligerents this history disappears when the realities of china s mid century conflicts are stripped from public view china at war recovers them china against the tides is an interpretive survey of china s revolution its sustained experiment with radical state socialism and its efforts at equally radical structural reform
