leaving the world to enter the world focuses on the fictional and theoretical writings of han shaogong one of the most striking voices in contemporary Chinese literature Han played a central role in the 'root seeking' trend that dominated the literary scene of the People's Republic of China in the mid 1980s. His work has won him acclaim from a wide range of readers in Chinese and other languages, a highlight being the 1996 novel 'Dictionary of Maqiao'. Critics have labeled Han the leader of a nationalist movement in search of a cultural identity. Mark Leenhouts shows that Han's role is much more complex, demonstrating that his literary practice is a highly individual creative continuation of Chinese tradition. Han's personal style transcends the narrow boundaries of 'root seeking' as it has been portrayed in literary histories and criticism to date. This rectification of the one-sided image of Han Shaogong has profound implications for the significance of 'root seeking' literature and for questions of tradition and modernity that have been among the most hotly debated topics in Chinese literary, intellectual and political thought throughout the 20th century. Leaving the world to enter the world does justice to the individuality of the literary author by taking the intrinsic structure of the literary work as its starting point. Leenhouts' close textual analysis is intelligent and pragmatic as it is sensitive, and will help counterbalance the socio-political orientation typical of much recent research by seeing Han Shaogong as a writer rather than a mouthpiece of historical forces. This book opens up new perspectives for enjoying his literary mastery.
