this book refutes the claim that tragedy is no longer a vital and relevant part of contemporary american theatre tragedy in the contemporary american theatre examines plays by multiple contemporary playwrights and compares them alongside the works of america s major twentieth century tragedians eugene o neill arthur miller and tennessee williams the book argues that tragedy is not only present in contemporary american theatre but issues from an expectation fundamental to american culture the pressure on characters to create themselves tragedy in the contemporary american theatre concludes that tragedy is vital and relevant though not always in the aristotelian model the standard for traditional evaluation in 1996 president nelson mandela described professor ali a mazrui 1933 2014 as an outstanding educationist and freedom fighter in 2002 the former un secretary general kofi annan referred to professor mazrui as africa s gift to the world author of more than 35 books and hundreds of articles professor mazrui was an african scholar who had treated with uncommon verve and flair a wide range of themes that included globalization the triple heritage peace and social justice this volume engages with some of those themes that excited his mind for over six decades the multidisciplinary essays seek to underline the highlights of mazrui s intellectual journey and attest to the fact that he was public intellectual par excellence indeed in 2005 he was named one of the top 100 public intellectuals in the world this book is a product of a symposium held from 15 to 17 july 2016 in nairobi kenya the symposium was jointly organized by the twaweza communications nairobi kenya and the institute of global cultural studies state university of new york at binghamton which ali mazrui created and presided over as the albert schweitzer professor in the humanities from 1991 to 2014 in the early 1960s two leaders of the new york performance group living theatre were asked to define its purpose in this survey of contemporary american drama matthew c roudane argues that the response of these two pioneers in experimental theater julian beck and judith malina goes a long way toward explaining the purpose of all of the rich and varied dramas to appear on the stage since 1960 to increase conscious awareness to stress the sacredness of life to break down the walls african american playwrights lorraine hansberry alice childress james baldwin amiri baraka women playwrights marsha the book applies playwright john guare s statement that the war against naturalism is the history of the american theatre in the twentieth century to selected plays by important contemporary american playwrights crucial to the argument is the recognition that a war presupposes two sides with neither side defeating the other for if naturalistic theatre were to win all theatre would be linear with characters circumscribed by their heredity and environment if non naturalistic theatre were to win all theatre would be a hodgepodge of incoherent images after isolating elements of a naturalistic play in its philosophical and mode of production sense the book examines plays that wage war in language and character the plays are all of the past few decades some by foreman and wellman are disorienting some by albee groff and maxwell are controversial others by eno and corthron are by playwrights on the verge of major careers still others by overmyer and jenkin are drawing aspiring playwrights to them as models of new exciting writing for the theatre all of them whether colliding genres and styles or destabilizing meaning as in plays by gibson and long or reclaiming a mystery as in plays by ludlam greenberg and donagy challenge naturalism s boundaries the book not only provides an approach to the contemporary american drama theatre but also brings together playwrights not perceived as having any connections other than the fact that they are creating plays today the text is appropriate for undergraduate students through professors and practitioners
