a scathing critique of analytic philosophy contending that philosophy is a subjective enterprise and snubbing its nose at all first order philosophical theories biting the hand that feeds her calhoun philosophy state u of new york advances a metaphilosopical theory arguing that academia discourages skepticism among students excludes non philosophers from dialogue and perpetuates a false notion of philosophical proof which renders contemporary philosophy inaccessible and of little relevance to human life she bolsters her criticism with references to richard rorty and is clear as a bell in her polemics this volume will surely upset stomachs in the ivory tower annotation copyrighted by book news inc portland or

this volume presents thirteen papers from a session of the ifa conference held in newcastle upon tyne in 2001 which aim to bring archaeologists and environmentalists closer together the author presents a two tiered analysis that views postmodern legal thought as both a collective intellectual movement and as the work of particular theorists notably friedrich nietzsche michel foucault jacques derrida francois lyotard and richard rorty he concludes that even though postmodern thought does not give rise to a normative theory of right that can be used as a framework for deciding cases it can focus attention on genealogy and discourse and can empower those who have been denied a voice in the legal system annotation copyrighted by book news inc portland or is the judiciary the ultimate authority on constitutional questions susan burgess says no basing her argument on the theory of departmental review burgess contends that each branch of government has the right to interpret the constitution and that no branch has final authority through close study of the abortion and war powers debates burgess illustrates that the practice of departmental review improves the quality of constitutional debate deepens constitutional consciousness and enhances respect for the rule of law first she investigates the constitutional issues relating to the debates over roe v wade and in its wake the 1981 human life bill the 1985 abortion funding restriction act and contemporaneous court cases she follows with a comparative analysis of the constitutional debates that focused on the infamous 1964 gulf of tonkin resolution and the persian gulf crisis of the late 1980s one before and the other after the passage of the 1973 war powers act burgess demonstrates the considerable potential and possible drawbacks of departmental review for creating a common constitutional language that transcends the polemical impasses characterizing much current debate for recapturing active and thoughtful citizen participation and for renewing our faith in the authority of the constitution

over the course of the last century scholars have furiously debated four questions concerning the founders and their act of creation were the framers motivated by their economic interests how democratic was the framers constitution should we interpret the founding using philosophical or strictly historical approaches what traditions of political thought were most important to the framers in understanding the founding the crucial questions alan gibson examines the preconceptions that scholars bring to these questions explores the deepest sources of scholars disagreements over them and suggests new and thoughtful lines of interpretation and inquiry building on his previous work interpreting the founding which offers a synoptic overview of the competing perspectives that have informed modern scholarship on the founders
