when murat sertel asked us whether we would be interested in organizing a special issue of the review of economic design on the formation of networks and groups we were happy to accept because of the growing research on this important topic we were also pleasantly surprised at the response to our request for submissions to the special issue receiving a much larger number of submissions than we had anticipated in the end we were able to put together two special issues of insightful papers on this topic given the growing interest in this topic we also decided with encouragement from murat to combine the special issues in the form of a book for wider dissemination however once we had decided to edit the book it was natural to move beyond the special issue to include at least some of the papers that have been influential in the literature on the formation of networks these papers were published in other journals and we are very grateful to the authors as well as the journals for permission to include these papers in the book this book is stunning phenomenal wow cecelia ahern author of p s i love you winner of the finlandia prize seven women meet in a white undefined space seconds after their deaths time as we understand it has ceased to exist and all bodily sensations have disappeared none of the women can remember what happened to them where they are or how they got there they don't know each other in turn they try to remember to piece together the fragments of their lives their identities their lost loves and to pinpoint the moment they left their former lives behind deftly playing with genres from essay to poetry oneiron is an astonishing work that explores the question of what follows death and delves deep into the lives and experiences of seven unforgettable women an unforgettable book from portugal's bestselling author that promises to change how we read about love the restaurant is crowded and noisy the man sits by the window watching the grey sky bored as he is every monday morning suddenly he turns and she's there standing in front of him years have passed since he last saw her since the day he left without an explanation without a reason only now does he realise he never stopped loving her even for a second pedro chagas freitas takes the reader on a journey to discover the truth about love the kind of love that touches envelops and thrills you that conceals and reveals that wounds and heals that seizes you and sets you free a new graphic approach to traditional japanese sashiko the sashiko embroidery designs in this book are almost architectural in nature fresh and exciting they include time honored patterns used in new and striking ways as well as innovative designs inspired by things that we use and see every day paper clips bridges factories and seaside scenes are just a few of the many sources of inspiration for these 31 fabulous embroidery designs this complete how to stitch design and pattern book includes illustrated techniques showing you how to chart your pattern and forming the perfect stitches actual size grids along with instructions for executing your designs easy projects for accessories like bags napkins and tissue box covers inspirational photos demonstrate the flow texture and use of color that modern sashiko delivers as well as some of the cool things you can make with these elegant and whimsical patterns céline sciamma's 2011 film tomboy is the central work in the french filmmaker's coming of age trilogy bracketed between la naissance des pieuvres waterlilies 2007 an examination of girlhood and teenage desire and the 2014 film bande de filles girlhood about the lives of a group of black girls in their late teens living in the paris suburbs tomboy is a quiet understated examination of gender and queer selfhood amidst the shifting sands of late childhood and early adolescence tomboy is an intimate and luminous film tender but stark and never sentimental written cast and filmed in a matter of months it follows the experiences and burgeoning friendships of a ten year old child who moves to a new town during the summer holidays first introducing themselves as mikaël they are we later learn laure to their parents and younger sister sciamma's film is not interested in why the character is passing but in how cristina johnston focuses on specific elements of mikaël laure's haptic and spatial experience showing how the filmmaker's signature engagement with surfaces and textures allows queer potentialities to unfold organically while johnston centres her analysis on tomboy she also connects the film to broader themes within sciamma's trilogy public reception of the films and the significance of sciamma's identity as a queer director ultimately the book offers insight into a film that deserves to be watched and appreciated for its nuanced portrayal of childhood queerness and passing as experience rather than ideology on a stormy summer day the aosawas owners of a prominent local hospital host a large birthday party the occasion turns into tragedy when 17 people die from cyanide in their drinks the only surviving links to what might have happened are a cryptic verse that could be the killer's and the physician's bewitching blind daughter hisako the only person spared injury but the youth who emerges as the prime suspect commits suicide that october effectively sealing his guilt while consigning his motives to mystery the police are convinced that hisako had a role in the crime as are many in the town including the author of a bestselling book about the murders written a decade after the incident who was herself a childhood friend of hisako and witness to the discovery of the murders the truth is revealed through a skilful juggling of testimony by different voices family members witnesses and neighbours police investigators and of course the mesmerizing hisako herself a times book of the year 2019 the second world war is over but the world is far from safe as victorious russian troops sweep across east prussia a group of desperate children face a new battle confronted by critical food shortages and the onset of a bitterly cold winter these wolf children secretly cross the border into lithuania in search of work or food to take back to their starving families in a world still reeling from the devastation of war the children must risk everything to survive in the shadow of wolves is a story of resilience devastation and ultimately hope based on meticulous research alvydas šlepikas's stunningly powerful debut novel has won over readers and critics across the world networks of relationships help determine the careers that people choose the jobs they obtain the products they buy and how they vote the many aspects of our lives that are governed by social networks make it critical to understand how they impact behavior which network structures are likely to emerge in a society and why we organize ourselves as we do in social and economic networks matthew jackson offers a comprehensive introduction to social and economic networks drawing on the latest findings in economics sociology computer science physics and mathematics he provides empirical background on networks and the regularities that they exhibit and discusses random graph based models and strategic models of network formation he helps readers to understand behavior in networked societies with a detailed analysis of learning and diffusion in networks decision making by individuals who are influenced by their social neighbors game theory and markets on networks and a host of related subjects jackson also describes the varied statistical and modeling techniques used to analyze social networks each chapter includes exercises to aid students in their analysis of how networks function this book is an indispensable resource for students and researchers in economics mathematics physics sociology and business an extraordinary debut from one of slovenia's rising stars it's 2036 twenty five years after the great shutdown destroyed the global communications network in this post internet world three childhood friends come together to celebrate their fiftieth birthdays but with zoja a radical poet even an addict theatre director and kras a former minister for war in attendance this was never going to be a subdued occasion this hilariously anarchic debut plunges the reader into a world that is at once unthinkable and disturbingly familiar alarming exhilarating and keenly focused on the contradictions of modernity this is an astounding novel from a powerful new voice crossing disciplinary and chronological boundaries this volume integrates text and image essays and object pages to explore the processes inherent in gender representation rather than resituating women in particular categories or spheres as other scholarly publications and exhibitions have done taking its lead from the picturing women project on which it reflects and builds the volume makes a substantial methodological contribution to the analysis of gender discourse and visibility it offers new and stimulating scholarship that confronts historical patterns of representation that have defined what women were and are seen to be and presents new contexts for unveiling what art historian linda nochlin has called the mixed messages of representations of women
