most of the following stories have been written in scotland and sweden my research for the harrington curse took place in aberlady near north berwick scotland my latest work eight skulls of teversham was written partly in inverness taking in the atmosphere of the misty hills of scotlands highlandssuch a beautiful sight to behold double exposure was also created with a location of scotland in mind taking me back to my ancestors the scott clan and the famous sir walter scott the stories created in sweden were cracked porcelain which covered a wide area of mental and physical abuse this fictitious book was based on factual events and concerned itself with the life of ruth ashley a psychiatric nurse i am convinced that a ghost called sarah influenced my writing something called automatic writing for the love of charlotte was written in the united states of america and i must confess greatly influenced by the 9 11 attack on the twin towers in 2001 again the writing was influenced by ghosts it is my dream that sooner or later someone will read this work and consider writing a screenplay for television or movie now wouldnt that be good teversham is actually in cambridgeshire but for the story there is one on the scottish border both a town and a village where the eight skulls existed any similarity is purely coincidental and should not be mistaken for the small village that is in cambridgeshire frances hodgson burnett published numerous works for an adult readership but she is mainly remembered today for three novels written for children little lord fauntleroy 1886 a little princess 1905 and the secret garden 1911 this volume is dedicated to the secret garden the articles address a wide range of issues including the representation of the garden in burnett's novel in the context of cultural history the relationship between the concept of nature and female identity the idea of therapeutic places the notion of redemptive children in the secret garden and little lord fauntleroy the concept of male identity constructions of otherness and the redefinition of englishness film and anime versions of burnett's classic noel streatfeild's the painted garden as a rewriting of the secret garden attitudes towards food in children's classics and burnett's novel in the context of edwardian girlhood fiction and the tradition of the female novel of development frances hodgson burnett gained fame not only as an author of social fictions and romances but also for writing the immensely popular children's novel little lord fauntleroy she seemed an unlikely candidate to pen a quiet realistic and unsentimental paean to disagreeable children and the natural world which has the power to heal them but it is precisely these qualities that have garnered the secret garden both a continued audience and a central place in the canon of children's literature for a century in frances hodgson burnett's the secret garden a children's classic at 100 some of the most respected scholars of children's literature consider burnett's seminal work from modern critical perspectives contributors examine the works and authors that influenced burnett identify authors who have drawn on the secret garden in their writing and situate the novel in historical and theoretical contexts these essays push beyond the themes that have tended to occupy the majority of academic scholars who have written about the secret garden to date in doing so they approach the text from theoretical perspectives that allow new light to illuminate old debates scholars and students of children's literature women's literature transcontinental literature and the victorian edwardian period will find in this collection refreshing new looks at a children's classic
