good news america's master wordsmith strikes again with a new collection of erudite witty provocative sometimes barbed frequently hilarious on language columns published in the new york times and syndicated in more than three hundred other newspapers these opinions from the supreme court of current english usage cover everything from the bottom line on tycoonese and the accesses of computerese to portmanteau words like televangelist and draconomics the language maven's own plan for our bloated economy although safire makes an admirable case for adverbs and adjectives advocates of strong verbs will be heartened to hear that he also pleads for the preservation of the subjunctive mood delivers hot off the college campus the latest lingo in which rents means parents and yesterday's wimps are today's squids decries the brevity is next to godliness literary school bids farewell to anxiety it's been replaced by trendy stress or swangst noodles over such weighty geopolitical questions as when an intercept of a fighter is a buzz bemoans the loss of roughage to fiber and rides herd over the language spoken in marlboro country more good news safire again spices his own wit and wisdom with correspondence from lexicographic irregulars those zealous readers and letter writers who reply to his columns with praise scorn corrections and nitpicks anything to match wits with super maven if you could look it up and take my word for it occupy prominent spots in your bookcase then language maven strikes again belongs there too if they don't then begin with this safire and work your way back that's not a typo that's a pun selected to be read on radio four's book of the week one of the best books i've read in the last five or ten years wild is angry brave sad self knowing redemptive raw compelling and brilliantly written and i think it's destined to be loved by a lot of people men and women for a very long time nick hornby at twenty six cheryl strayed thought she had lost everything in the wake of her mother's rapid death from cancer her family disbanded and her marriage crumbled with nothing to lose she made the most impulsive decision of her life to walk eleven hundred miles of the west coast of america from the mojave desert through california and oregon and into washington state and to do it alone she had no experience of long distance hiking and the journey was nothing more than a line on a map but it held a promise a promise of piecing together a life that lay in ruins at her feet strayed's account captures the agonies both mental and physical of her incredible journey how it maddened and terrified her and how ultimately it healed her wild is a brutal memoir of survival grief and redemption a searing portrayal of life at its lowest ebb and at its highest tide
