home and native land takes its vastly important topic and places it under a new penetrating light shifting focus from the present grounds of debate onto a more critical terrain the book's articles by some of the foremost critical thinkers and activists on issues of difference diversity and canadian policy challenge sedimented thinking on the subject of multiculturalism not merely another book on race relations national identity or the post 9 11 security environment this collection forges new and innovative connections by examining how multiculturalism relates to issues of migration security labour environment nature and land these novel pairings illustrate the continued power limitations and at times destructiveness of multiculturalism both as policy and as discourse publisher s note this volume examines the relationship between history philosophy and social science and contributors explore questions concerning realism ontology causation explanation and values in order to address the question what does a post positivist social science look like this volume brings together an interdisciplinary group of scholars around an important question how has migration changed in europe as the european union has enlarged and what are the consequences for countries and for migrants themselves inside and outside of these redrawn jurisdictional and territorial borders by addressing this question the book contributes to three current debates with respect to eu migration management 1 that recent developments in eu migration management represent a profound spatial and organizational reconfiguration of the regional governance of migration 2 the trend towards the externalization or subcontracting of migration control and 3 how the implications of europe s changing immigration policy are increasingly felt across the european neighborhood and beyond based on new empirical research the authors in this collection explore these three processes and their consequences for both member and non member eu states for migrants themselves and for migration systems in the region the collection indicates that despite the rhetoric of social and spatial integration across the eu region as one wall has come down new walls have gone up as novel migration and security policy frameworks have been erected making european immigration more complex and potentially more influential beyond the eu zone than ever this dissertation argues that there has been a shift in emphasis in contemporary france from a regime of systematicity and justice grounded in the rule of law to a narrower ethics of exceptionality and benevolence based on a politics of humanitarianism and compassion i examine this shift from the angle of those most impacted by the failure of the rule of law immigrants particularly undocumented immigrants or those called les sans papiers in france based on ethnographic field research in paris from 1999 2001 with undocumented immigrants activist groups lawyers immigration officials nurses doctors and social workers this dissertation documents how as one example of this shift illness has become a primary means by which to stay in france legally it demonstrates how this emergent ethics has turned the politics of immigration into a politics of life and death where one must barter one s suffering for inclusion in the concept of humanity tokyo is one of the largest and most complex cities in the world and represents an intriguing proving ground for new ideas on architecture and urbanism working in tokyo means working in the future and often two sets of rules seem to apply to projects in tokyo on the one hand the city s growth is as protean as that of la or mexico city yet this growth is channeled by japan s rigid adherence to norms and rules and japanese architecture s embrace of the theoretical and new this book presents tokyo as seen through its growth and design from the 19th century onward with a special focus on highlighting the deep roots of contemporary trends in tokyo architecture
