in the face of the contested legacy of engagement in the francophone context this interdisciplinary collection demonstrates that french and francophone writers artists intellectuals and film makers are using their work to confront unforeseen and unprecedented challenges campaigns and causes in a politically uncertain post 9 11 world composed of eleven essays and a contextualising introduction this volume is interdisciplinary in its treatment of engagement in a variety of forms as it reassesses the relationship between different types of cultural production and society as it is played out in the twenty first century with a focus on both the development of different cultural forms part 1 and on the particular crises that have attracted the attention of cultural practitioners part 2 this volume maps and analyses some of the ways in which cultural texts of all kinds are being used to respond to engage with and challenge crises in the contemporary francophone world plot writes peter brooks is so basic to our very experience of reading and indeed to our articulation of experience in general that criticism has often passed it over in silence reading for the plot xi finding the plot both explores and helps to redress this critical neglect the book brings together an international group of scholars to address the nature effects and specific pleasures of consuming stories if the central focus is on france and popular literary fiction the book's scope like contemporary fiction itself observes no national frontiers and extends across a variety of media the book addresses both the empirical question of which genres and types of text have been and are most popular and the theoretical questions of how plots work what pleasures they offer to readers and why it matters that the plot should not be lost during the first mandatory lockdowns of the covid 19 pandemic citizens worldwide turned to pandemic fictions or started to produce their own corona fictions across different media these accounts of previously experienced or imagined health crises feature a great variety of protagonists and their re actions in response to the exceptional circumstances the contributors to this volume take a closer look at different pandemic protagonists in fictional narratives relating to the covid 19 pandemic as well as in existing pandemic fictions thereby they provide new insights into pandemic narratives from a cultural literary and media studies perspective from antiquity to today
