wirtschaftspolitik 129 entries in the bibliography language english abstract in the prevailing paper i will argue that the current institutional structure of the multilateral trade negotiations is the decisive factor that limits considerable progress in the liberalization of international agricultural markets wto members face a growing institutional complexity which does not allow for substantial liberalization steps rather countries need to find alternative ways to improve their individual trade balance my examinations will base on the insights of the new institutional theory nie which puts its scientific interest on institutions since institutions serve as a direct interface of societal processes including economical as well as political characteristics its application provides an appropriate attempt to approach multilateral trade negotiations a subject that indeed touches both areas seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject economics case scenarios grade 1 3 cologne business school k ln language english abstract in its latest white paper on international economy and trade 2009 the japanese ministry of economy trade and industry listed prevention of protectionism as one of its courses for domestic and foreign integrated economic measures ministry of economy trade and industry 2009 with 153 member states in the world trade organization formerly known as general agreement on tariffs and trade which is a multilateral institution that liberalizes trade establishes trade agreements and solves trade disputes one might think that protectionism should not be a problem in the 21st century gabler verlag 2009b japan joined the general agreement on tariffs and trade in 1955 and is still a member of the world trade organization today however the government of this nation still feels the necessity to state deterrence of protectionist measures in a paper which was only published in june 2009 world trade organization 2009a thus the question arises how important is protectionism for japan nowadays this question will be answered by explaining protectionist measures and looking at the historical development of such measures in japan since 1945 in the agricultural sector the agricultural sector is interesting since japan s agricultural imports accounted to over 50 billion in 2008 after the united states of america and the european union japan is the third largest importer of agricultural goods based on total calories consumed japan imports about 60 per cent of its food sources annually united states department of agriculture economic research service 2009a by evaluating official government sources the current situation is assessed and the effects of protectionist measures on imports by focusing on the agricultural sector will be elaborated this book deals exhaustively with new approaches to trade theory and policy current research topics such as strategic trade policy endogenous growth and international trade north south trade economic geography models globalization and core periphery patterns are treated in extremely clear verbal and graphic terms including clarification of their mathematical intricacies essay from the year 2011 in the subject economics international economic relations grade 2 heriot watt university edinburgh language english abstract the aim of this paper is to outline how the rise of china is re shaping the business environment for multi national enterprises mnes and how this is affecting their businesses the aggrandisement of china to become the second largest economy in the world occurred already in 2010 and this year it has been estimated that the people's republic of china will outrun the united states of america as the biggest manufacturer hout and ghemawat 2010 p 95 due to their economic power the chinese government is also gaining more political power which shows the willingness of china to contribute to the eurozone's bailout fund anderlini 2011a moreover this shows the significance china has as an economic region for the mnes although the initial approach was primarily to get access to low wages labour in order to economise the manufacturer cost this has recently experienced an enormous turnaround many enterprises no longer just seek the advantages of low labour cost in china but to a greater extent mnes emphasise the purchasing power which continues to increase and so their population is becoming important consumer markets as well cavusgil ghauri and agarwal 2002 p 2 at the same time china has been undergoing a movement towards a new stage of development a shifting from a successful low and middle tech manufacturing economy to a sophisticated high tech one has been seen and as hout and ghemawat put it this has been achieved by cajoling co opting and often coercing western and japanese businesses 2010 p 96 even though china seems to offer a great opportunity for mnes to produce and to sell their products still the mnes are facing huge challenges due to the provisions of national law bachelor thesis from the year 2017 in the subject economics case scenarios grade 2 1 university of nigeria course economics language english abstract the embracement of the international monetary funds imf structural adjustment programme sap in 1986 brought the bretton woods system which marked a period of the largest experiment of the pegged exchange rate regimes in the post world war ii era to its knees ever since then there has been a recoded high degree of volatility in the exchange rate of the naira vis à vis the us dollars in this regard this study seeks to examine other sources of shocks to the exchange rate fluctuations in nigeria relying on time series data covering the periods 1986

2015 to execute this effectively the generalized autoregressive conditional heteroscedasticity garch model introduced by tim bollerslev 1986 was used to decompose these shocks into internal and external sources also the time series properties of the data used were explored and the stationarity conditions of the chosen variables were examined by the help of adf unit root test under three different test regression equations however the garch 1 1 volatility forecasting result reveals that volatility shock is present and persistent and concludes that the fluctuations in the real exchange rate of the naira is responsive to both domestic and international shocks consequently this study recommends that policies be adopted to tame the degree of volatility in exchange rate because of the deleterious effect it could have on foreign transactions furthermore to make the work more enticing and attractive to the readers we sectionalized this study into chapters chapter one for introduction chapter two for literature review chapter three for research methodology chapter four for the presentation and analysis of empirical findings and chapter five the opening up of world markets rapid growth of trade and foreign direct investment create manifold problems for competition policy thus international mergers may have adverse effects on many countries international cartels may carve up world markets and dominant firms may seek to maintain their global position by exclusionary conduct these problems have been recognised for more than half a century and some attempts have been made internationally to address them so far with limited success this progressive book seeks to explore the problems and concerns that globalisation has created for competition policy the book begins by setting out the principles of competition and trade policies and then goes on to address the impact of market globalisation on what are usually thought of as traditional antitrust concerns these include the analysis of the difficulties arising from collusion and other restrictive practices government sponsored voluntary co operation vertical restrictions and market access pricing strategies of dominant firms and international mergers all illustrated with a number of prominent case studies the author concludes with an illuminating discussion on the feasibility of international co operation on competition policy the faltering progress that has been made so far and the prospects for future advances this comprehensive volume will prove to be an invaluable resource to students and scholars of law and economics it will also find wide appeal amongst researchers policy makers and practitioners with an interest in industrial organisation antitrust policy and globalisation
