strictly speaking james carey wrote there is no history of mass communication research this volume is a long overdue response to carey s comment about the field s ignorance of its own past the collection includes essays of historiographical self scrutiny as well as new histories that trace the field s institutional evolution and cross pollination with other academic disciplines the volume treats the remembered past of mass communication research as crucial terrain where boundaries are marked off and futures plotted the collection intended for scholars and advanced graduate students is an essential compass for the field wilbur schramm and noam chomsky meet harold innis is an original critical in depth analysis of the media and communication thought of canada s most highly acclaimed scholar harold adams innis even in canada however innis s writings until now have been only partially cited and interpreted innis is usually stereotyped as being merely an economic historian fixated on previous civilizations whereas in fact he was an astute analyst whose main concerns were with present problems and future trajectories in the united states meanwhile innis s media and communication writings have been quite neglected and even denigrated drawing on innis s less frequently cited work including his long neglected political economy in the modern state robert babe opens up innis s media scholarship as a whole unfolding it in startling critical yet ultimately appreciative ways by comparing innis s media scholarship with wilbur schramm s and noam chomsky s moreover babe tests the claims positions and modes of analysis not only of innis but also of the other two celebrated scholars as well casting new light on their works and allowing the reader to imagine what sort of discourses might have been possible had the three been in conversation together wilbur schramm and noam chomsky meet harold innis provides comparative insight into foundational media scholarship in the united states and canada and explores in some detail the relevance of innis for twenty first century digitized society in how machines came to speak jennifer petersen constructs a genealogy of how legal conceptions of speech have transformed over the last century in response to new media technologies drawing on media and legal history petersen shows that the legal category of speech has varied considerably evolving from a narrow category of oratory and print publication to a broad abstract conception encompassing expressive nonverbal actions algorithms and data she examines a series of pivotal us court cases in which new media technologies such as phonographs radio film and computer code were integral to this shift in judicial decisions ranging from the determination that silent films were not a form of speech to the expansion of speech rights to include algorithmic outputs courts understood speech as mediated through technology speech thus became disarticulated from individual speakers by outlining how legal definitions of speech are indelibly dependent on technology petersen demonstrates that future innovations such as artificial intelligence will continue to restructure speech law in ways that threaten to protect corporate and institutional forms of speech over the rights and interests of citizens transforming mcluhan explores the radical humanist line of descent in interpreting canadian media and culture theorist marshall mcluhan s work rejecting the dominant view of mcluhan as a conservative uncritical herald of technological determinism and capitalism this mcluhan is the oppositional critic of modernity resisting uncontrolled technological change who seeks new media forms with a human face contributors from diverse international and academic perspectives include douglas kellner nick stevenson gary genosko richard cavell lance strate glenn willmott patrick brantlinger donna flayhan and bob hanke marshall mcluhan was the first to theorize and to develop a concept of media indicating their importance to all areas of society and culture today media are far more pervasive than in the 1950s and 1960s when he wrote yet his work has still not received its due attention transforming mcluhan will begin to correct this oversight mark poster university of california irvine
