this survey of female scientists in recent american history offers compelling data alongside the multiple stories of individual women science the third volume of margaret w rossiter s landmark survey of the history of american women scientists focuses on their pioneering efforts and contributions from 1972 to the present central to this story are the struggles and successes of women scientists in the era of affirmative action scores of previously isolated women scientists were suddenly energized to do things they had rarely if ever done before form organizations and recruit new members start rosters and projects put out newsletters confront authorities and even fight and win lawsuits. Rossiter follows the major activities of these groups in several fields from engineering to the physical, biological and social sciences and their campaigns to raise consciousness. See legislation enforced by lobby for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment and serve as watchdogs of the media. This comprehensive volume also covers the changing employment circumstances in the federal government, academia, industry and the nonprofit sector and discusses contemporary battles to increase the number of women members of the National Academy of Science and women presidents of scientific societies. In writing this book, Rossiter mined nearly one hundred previously unexamined archival collections and more than fifty oral histories with the thoroughness and resourcefulness that characterize the earlier volumes. She recounts the rich history of the courageous and resolute women determined to realize their scientific ambitions.
