psychology is of interest to academics from many fields as well as to the thousands of academic and clinical psychologists and general public who can't help but be interested in learning more about why humans think and behave as they do. This award-winning twelve-volume reference covers every aspect of the ever-fascinating discipline of psychology and represents the most current knowledge in the field. This ten-year revision now covers discoveries based in neuroscience, clinical psychology, a new interest in evidence-based practice and mindfulness, and new findings in social, developmental, and forensic psychology.

The two volumes of the 'Social Dimension' present a comprehensive survey of the major developments in social psychology which took place in Europe during the very active 1970s and 1980s. They aim to capture the diversity and vitality of the discipline, stress the growing emphasis on fully social analyses of social psychological phenomena, hence the 'Social Dimension' and to provide a valuable resource for researchers in the future. Although comprehensive in scope, the volumes are not written in the formal style of a reference handbook; instead, the authors of the thirty-three chapters, drawn from more than a dozen mainly European countries and all experts in their own fields, were invited to present their own personal overviews of the issues in social psychology on which they were actively working. Both volumes are organized into three main parts. Volume 1 is concerned with the social development of the child, interpersonal communication and relationships, and the social reality group processes and intergroup relations. This ambitious enterprise has produced a distinctive yet authoritative summary and evaluation of the growth points of social psychology in Europe which will interest and influence not only social psychologists but many readers from related disciplines.

The European Review of Social Psychology (ERSP) is an international, open submission, review journal published under the auspices of the European Association of Social Psychology. It provides an outlet for substantial theory-based reviews of empirical work addressing the full range of topics covered by the field of social psychology. Potential authorship is international and papers are edited with the help of a distinguished international editorial board. Articles published in ERSP typically review a programme of the author's own research as evidenced by the author's own papers published in leading peer-reviewed journals. The journal welcomes theoretical contributions that are underpinned by a substantial body of empirical research which locate the research programme within a wider body of published research in that area and provide an integration that is greater than the sum of the published articles. ERSP also publishes conventional reviews and meta-analyses. All published review articles in this journal have undergone rigorous peer review based on initial screening and refereeing by the editors and at least two independent expert referees.
