the indigenous and creole inhabitants mosquitians of african descent of the mosquito reserve in present day nicaragua underwent a key transformation when two moravian missionaries arrived in 1849 within a few short generations the new faith became so firmly established there that eastern nicaragua to this day remains one of the world's strongest moravian enclaves the awakening coast offers the first comprehensive english language selection of the writings of the multinational missionaries who established the moravian faith among the indigenous and afro descendant populations through the turbulent years of the great awakening of 1881 to 1882 when converts flocked to the church and the mission's membership more than doubled the anthology tracks the intersection of religious political and economic forces that led to this dynamic religious shift and illustrates how the mission's first fifty years turned a relatively obscure branch of protestantism into the most important political and spiritual institution in the region by contextualizing the great awakening protestant evangelism and indigenous identity during this time of dramatic social change
