in this day of age we have come a long way compared to the cavemen that once walked our planet technology has completely changed our world and not always for the better when it comes to health and fitness it has made it easier for us to harvest and gather crops and kill animals for meat just go to the grocery store it has become so advanced that fruits vegetables and animal products are being mass produced at a large scale to accommodate a huge population of people cavemen used to have to walk and sprint for days bodyweight exercise to feed their family and there certainly wasn't enough food to feed outside their clan or last for more than a couple of days while this may seem terrible this kind of activity kept them fit even when not fully fed now that we have all this technology helping us gather our food it has created a negative impact on our population we have now become sedentary throughout our days and barely even have to get up to make our own food instead of hunting for some meat we drive to our local grocery store or butcher shop instead of picking from fruit trees we pick it up at the store or even have it delivered to our house these conveniences we have created to make our lives easier have made us motionless overweight and unhealthy in order to combat our now sedentary way of life we have created gyms that provide a means to fitness but these machines only help us so much most of these machines only target specific areas of the body and cause us to do motions our body was not efficiently designed to do instead we should be focusing on primal fitness using compound exercises with just our bodyweight to get us to ultimate health primal fitness also called caveman fitness is a combination of movements that your body was designed to do to help develop full body strength and health it is also called functional fitness as it develops muscles used for everyday tasks in other words it is the practice of using your body and what nature has given you to remain fit and healthy nature can provide an unlimited amount of resistance and endurance in a way that gyms just cannot deliver cavemen needed to be fit in order to get their food and survive out in the wild these activities probably included walking for miles sprinting crawling swimming and climbing to name a few these examples are all great examples of what primal fitness entails now that you do not need to hunt or gather your own food due to great technological advances primal fitness can be evolved into a more modern way to mimic these movements paleo devotees are dedicated to the pursuit of health and fitness through a diet free of processed foods wheat products that bloat and fatigue the body and filled with energy yielding foods that power their workouts when you view how these workouts and this diet complement each other you can see how this program could work for you

ectomorph is usually slim build and sometimes even thin which makes it quite easy to distinguish it from endomorphic and mesomorphic he has narrow shoulders and hips and his chest is relatively narrow and flat the face and neck are slender and elongated and the posture is rather stooped which is due to the weak tension of the muscles responsible for the straight posture the goal of ectomorphic will be to increase body weight so that body composition is more proportional muscularity will be a particular challenge ectomorph is characterized by rapid metabolism which can be seen as an advantage because there is a small risk of postponing excess calories in the form of adipose tissue on the other hand high caloric needs causes difficulties with the growth of muscle mass because muscle tissue very quickly consumes energy reserves in the form of carbohydrates and begins to burn the proteins it is made of because of this muscle maintenance can be a problem due to the fast metabolism the basis of the diet is high calorific value to avoid self burning of muscle tissue you have to calculate your caloric needs and add extra calories in the book i explain how to do it to increase weight use 5 to 7 large meals the basis of the menu should be complex carbohydrates such as rice oats pasta dark bread etc the division of macronutrients should be as follows 45 50 carbohydrates 20 protein fats 30 35 among nutrients it is worth considering the use of gainers which can facilitate weight gain it is much easier to meet high caloric needs by using in the diet a large amount of high calorie nuts and stones rich in fats and proteins the ectomorphic diet should also be rich in vegetable oils and fats of animal origin which helps to increase the energy value of individual meals it is important to control your muscle mass gain to avoid unnecessary fat gain particularly valuable in this case is the increase in pure muscle mass and its maintenance which is why proper training accompanying a diet tailored to the needs of ectomorphics is important ectomorphs also show high tolerance to carbohydrates which means that the diet can consist largely of them it is especially recommended to eat carbohydrate meals during or after training due to the high demand for carbohydrates breakfast should be the most extensive meal of the day consisting of carbohydrates and proteins such charging of carbohydrates prevents their deficiency during the day in the event of energy shortage the body burns carbohydrates in the first place which means that the strategy of eating breakfast rich in this macronutrient prevents the consumption of muscle tissue the program lasts 8 weeks in the book everything is explained step by step which actions you should take for maximum results the book offers space for 40 daily workouts and 56 spaces for daily record food perfect for 8 weeks with this space you can count macros calories equipment used reps sets and a number of other metrics the perfect combination for building muscle it's really worth a try time will pass it depends only on us how we will use it if you are not satisfied you always have the right to a refund however i know that sticking to the assumptions contained in the book you will certainly achieve your goal
