seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject didactics for the subject english miscellaneous grade 1 0 university of paderborn institut für anglistik und amerikanistik course diagnose f rderung g hrsge schwerpunkt kl 1 7 language english abstract knowing that warm ups are supposed to be important in the context of classrooms that are teaching english as a foreign language this thesis will analyse its relevance in depth by doing so the main question of this work will be which role do warm ups play in english as foreign language lessons getting to know how and why these activities are crucial for the affected students is surely interesting and beneficial for teachers to be as they need to focus on organising their lessons and making their students learning progress top priority in order to find an answer to the main issue of this work the first step will be to examine the warm up as an own lesson phase secondary the positive effects of using such a lesson phase will be described lastly important instructions for the use of warm ups will be given in the end the most important aspects of the analysis will be

summarised in a conclusion

while in the past the main foci of foreign language learning were grammar and lexis today language teaching experts give prominence to humanistic language teaching ergo on combining the intellectual with the emotional side of learning and the prescribed subject matter with engaging humanistic activities such as icebreakers and warm ups the former enables teachers to establish close interpersonal relationships and help build a safe classroom climate while the latter ease learners into the foreign language by inducing attention curiosity and motivation to communicate in the target language the aim of this ma thesis is to ascertain how often slovenian secondary school teachers of english use icebreakers and warm ups what type of warm ups they most frequently use how they perceive their role in the foreign language classroom and to determine their opinion on whether positive or negative teacher learner relationship influences their ability to successfully teach the foreign language moreover this study aimed to establish if learners prefer english lessons that begin with a warm up activity and whether they believe that having a good relationship with their english teacher and classmates influences their foreign language acquisition process quantitative and qualitative research were used to provide answers to the above mentioned questions as part of the qualitative data gathering strategy lesson observations were conducted and as part of the quantitative data gathering research strategy a survey and two questionnaires were created the results indicate that slovenian secondary school teachers of english start their first lesson at the start of the school year with a detailed course information instead of icebreakers and that they use warm up activities once every few weeks despite the fact that they are aware of their benefits have enough time to prepare them and that learners find them enjoyable both learners and teachers are also of the opinion that positive interpersonal relationships are important for the learning and teaching process on this premise it is recommended that teachers use icebreakers and warm up activities on a regular basis to help prevent discipline problems as well as to raise levels of motivation and participation in the foreign language classroom
