Josep Lluís Sert

la tourette le carmel de la paix designed by José Luis Sert remains tranquilly unvisited and quietly erased from architectural history why this unusual convent falls outside the standard categories of Sert's architecture and has been overlooked in most publications about his work as J. K. Birksted explains the design and construction process for this building proved nightmarish resulting in a building which at first sight appears to be ineloquent this first detailed examination of this building shows how the convent and the story of its creation offer valuable and important new insights into Sert's architecture and his life however the study also opens up discussions on wider subjects such as the relationships between modernist architecture and ecclesiastical architecture the design and construction of the carmel de la paix 1968 1972 followed the second ecumenical council of the vatican 1962 1965 which introduced fundamental changes and proposals for renewing the relationship between the church and the changing modern world and the convent provides an interesting illustration of this period in addition it offers insights into the fascinating world of the carmelite order and its specific liturgical requirements and reflecting on the nuns active involvement in the design and construction process it also explores wider issues of women in architecture

to strengthen the contemporary focus of this volume we have added about forty architects and have deleted some whose activity ceased before world war ii in making these decisions we have been assisted by an advisory board as in the first volume we have continued to define the word architect very broadly so as to include planners theorists structural engineers and landscape architects whose work seems to be central to the enterprise of creating habitable spaces in our day editor's note

Josep Lluís Sert 1902 1983 was the last president of CIAM international congresses of modern architecture and dean of the harvard university graduate school of design from 1953 to 1969 where he founded the discipline of urban design his writings offer a new view of his activities in architecture and urban planning and provide the intellectual context for his own work as an architect much of which is still controversial and often poorly understood this book includes 16 essays dating from 1951 to 1977 ten of which are previously unpublished the writings of Josep Lluís Sert illuminates Sert's contributions to 20th century architecture urban design and design pedagogy and makes clear the similarities and differences between his ideas and those of his mentor Le Corbusier the essays reveal Sert's advocacy both for pedestrian urbanism and for planning in relation to the natural environment ideas that have become important issues in contemporary urban design each text is introduced by the editor Eric Mumford a scholar of CIAM Sert and modern urbanism publisher's website
