internationally the case of early modern sweden is noteworthy because the state building process transformed a locally dispersed and sparsely populated area into a strongly centralized absolute monarchy and european empire at the beginning of the 17th century this anthology provides fresh insights into the state building process in sweden during this transitional period many far reaching administrative reforms were carried out and the swedish state developed into a prime example of the early modern powerstate the contributors approach sweden s rise to greatness from the point of view of personal agency in early modern studies agency has long remained in the shadow of the study of structures and institutions this novel approach enables us to expose the difficulties setbacks and false steps that the administration had to deal with state building was a more diversified and personalized process than has previously been assumed numerous individuals were also crucially important actors in the process and that development itself was not straightforward progression at the macro level but was intertwined with lower level actors each chapter in this volume employs partially different methods depending on the source material and subject this means that both qualitative and quantitative material is combined different ways of making sense of it i e research traditions are brought together and a multi method design is used in analyzing source material one of the central methods is the systematic use of previous biographical research we want to give the individuals and their actions under discussion a background that reflects the contemporary structures of individual life cycles with the existing biographical research it is possible to create a comprehensive set of data that provides the general outlines of individual lives or the career tracks of various estates or social groups and even to construct collective biographies of certain groups this highly interdisciplinary book studies historical famines as an interface of nature and culture it will bring together researchers from the natural and social sciences as well as the humanities with reference to recent interdisciplinary concepts disaster studies vulnerability studies environmental history it will examine how the dominant opposition of natural and cultural factors can be overcome such an integrated approach includes the archives of nature as well as archives of man it challenges deterministic models of human environment interaction and replaces them with a dynamic historicising approach as a result it provides a fresh perspective on the entanglement of climate and culture in past societies presenting new insights into reciprocity this book combines marcel mauss's well known gift theory with barrington moore's idea of mutual obligations linking rulers and the ruled teasing out the interrelatedness of these approaches reciprocity in human societies suggests that evolutionary psychology reveals a human tendency for reciprocity and collaboration not only in a mutually cooperative way but also through increasing retributive moral emotions the book discusses various historical societies and the different models of the current welfare state nordic social democratic conservative and liberal and the repercussions of the neoliberal policies of tax havens tax cuts and austerity with a cross disciplinary approach that bridges evolutionary psychology sociology and social anthropology with history in the anthropocene icy environments have taken on a new centrality and emotional valency this book examines the diverse ways in which ice and humans have performed with and alongside each other over the last few centuries so as to better understand our entangled futures icescapes glaciers bergs floes ice shelves are places of paradox solid and weighty they are nonetheless always on the move unstable untrustworthy liable to collapse overturn or melt icescapes have featured indeed starred in conventional theatrical performances since at least the eighteenth century more recently the performing arts site specific or otherwise have provoked a different set of considerations of human interactions with these non human objects particularly as concerns over anthropogenic warming have mounted the performances analysed in the book range from the theatrical to the everyday from the historical to the contemporary from low latitude events in interior spaces to embodied encounters with the frozen environment
