over the span of forty years professor raphael dorman oleary labored tirelessly to make his students understand the importance of originality and of apt expression in english composition he especially loved words well chosen and dared his students to put beauty and smoothness and sinew into their sentences he tried passionately to make them feel the dignity and the majesty of the english language at its best when he died after a short illness in 1936 his personal effects passed among descendants until finally coming to rest with dennis oleary and his spouse margaret who discovered them in a poor condition while restoring a family house amid professor olearys papers was his handwritten journal from the year 1914 to 1915 the journal displays the full measure of r d oleary in his myriad academic social political and religious experiences at the university of kansas atop mount oread in the adjacent city of lawrence kansas and while traveling to rural kansas during the summer months and to minneapolis minnesota in the dead of winter throughout his journal professor oleary portrays with humor and pathos his encounters with students colleagues his spouse his three sons his mother shopkeepers religious zealots pro german zealots anti german zealots drayers pullman conductors bankers politicians publishers educated spinsters and garden wasps while vividly describing cold classrooms interminable whist parties trilling sopranos kansas football games and lawrence seed stores r d oleary 18661936 notes from mount oread 19141915 is a fascinating glimpse into the life and times of a revered english professor half way through his forty years of teaching at the university of kansas

the first collection of leary s writings devoted entirely to the research phase of his career 1960 to 1965 presents leary s early scientific articles and scholarly essays including those on the harvard psilocybin project the concord prison project and the good friday experiment with an editor's introduction that examines the Harvard drug scandal in detail as well as a critical preface for each essay on May 27, 1963. Dr. Timothy Leary and Dr. Richard Alpert were dismissed from Harvard University's psychology department, a watershed event marking the moment when psychedelic drugs were publicly demonized and driven underground. Today, little is known about the period in the early 1960s when LSD and psilocybin were not only legal but also actively researched at universities. Presenting the first collection of Leary's writings devoted entirely to the research phase of his career, 1960 to 1965, this book offers rare articles from Leary's time as a professor in Harvard's psychology department, including writings from the Harvard Psilocybin Project, the Concord Prison Project, and the Good Friday Experiment. These essays, co-authored with Richard Alpert, Huston Smith, Ralph Metzner, and other psychedelic research visionaries, explore the nature of creativity and the therapeutic, spiritual, and religious aspects of psilocybin and LSD, featuring Leary's scientific articles and a rare account of his therapeutic approach on Existential Transaction Theory. The book also includes Leary's final essay from his time at Harvard, "The Politics of Consciousness," as well as controversial articles published shortly after his dismissal, with an editor's introduction examining the Harvard drug scandal and a critical preface to each essay. This book of seminal early writings by Leary, appearing in unabridged form, shows why he quickly became an articulate spokesperson for consciousness expansion and an iconic figure for the generation that came of age in the 1960s.

The Great Chicago Fire of 1871 swallowed up more than three square miles in two days, leaving thousands homeless and 300 dead. Throughout history, the fire has been attributed to Mrs. O'Leary, an immigrant Irish milkmaid, and her cow. On one level, the tale of Mrs. O'Leary's cow is merely the quintessential urban legend, but the story also represents a means by which the upper classes of Chicago could blame the fire's chaos on a member of the working poor. Although that fire destroyed the official county documents, some land tract records were saved. Using this and other primary source information, Richard F. Bales created a scale drawing that reconstructed the O'Leary neighborhood. Next, he turned to the transcripts, more than 1,100 handwritten pages from an investigation conducted by the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners, which interviewed 50 people over the course of 12 days. The board's final report, published in the Chicago newspapers on December 12, 1871, indicates that commissioners were unable to determine the cause of the fire, and yet, by analyzing the 50 witnesses' testimonies, the author concludes that the commissioners could have determined the cause of the fire had they desired to do so. Being more concerned with saving their own reputation from post-fire reports of incompetence, drunkenness, and bribery, the commissioners failed to press forward for an answer. The author has uncovered solid evidence as to what really caused the Great Chicago Fire.
