in the african context there exists the myth that orality means tradition written and oral verbal art are often regarded as dichotomies one excluding the other while orature is confused with tradition literature is ascribed to modernity furthermore local languages are ignored and literature is equated with writing in foreign languages the contributions in this volume take issue with such preconceptions and explore the multiple ways in which literary and oral forms interrelate and subvert each other giving birth to new forms of artistic expression they emphasize the local agency of the african poet and writer which resists the global commodification of literature through the international bestseller lists of the cultural industry the first section traces the movement from oral to written texts which in many cases coincides with a switch from african to european languages but as the essays in the section on new literary languages make clear in other cases a true philological work is accomplished in the african language to create a new written and literary medium through the mixing of languages in the cities such as the sheng spoken in kenya or the bilinguality of a writer such as cheik aliou ndao senegal new idioms for literary expressions evolve the use of new media technology or music stimulate the emergence of new genres such as taarab in east africa radio poetry in yoruba and hausa or rap in the senegal as is shown in the section on forms of new orality it is a great achievement of this second volume of versions and subversions in african literatures that it assembles contributions by scholars from the anglophone and the francophone world and that it covers literary production in a broad spectrum of languages english french hausa sheng sotho spanish swahili wolof and yoruba some of the authors and cultural practitioners treated in detail are mobolaij adenubi birago diop boubacar boris diop david maillu thomas mofolo cheik aliou ndao donato ndongo bidyogo hubert ogunde shaaban robert wole soyinka ibrahim yaroyahaya and sénouvo agbota zinsou
