postmodern ethics offers a new perspective on debates surrounding the role of the intellectual in Italian society and provides an original reading of two important Italian contemporary writers Leonardo Sciascia and Antonio Tabucchi. It examines the ways in which the two writers use literature to engage with their socio-political environment in a climate informed by the doubts and scepticism of postmodernism after traditional forms of impegno had been abandoned. Postmodern ethics explores ways in which Tabucchi and Sciascia further their engagement through embracing the very factors which problematized traditional committed writing such as the absence of fixed truths, the inability of language to fully communicate ideas and intertextuality. Postmodern ethics provides an innovative new reading of Tabucchi's works. It challenges the standard view in critical literature that his writing may be divided into 'engaged' texts which dialogue with society and 'postmodern' texts which focus on literary interiority, suggesting instead that socio-political engagement underpins all of his works. It also offers a new lens on Sciascia's writing, unpacking why Sciascia, unlike his contemporaries, is able to maintain a belief in literature as a means of dialoguing with society. Postmodern ethics explores the ways in which Tabucchi and Sciascia approach issues of terrorism, justice, the anti-mafia movement, immigration and the value of reading in connected yet distinct ways, suggesting that a close genealogy may be drawn between these two key intellectual figures.

What place do images hold among other kinds of historical evidence? In Eyewitnessing, Peter Burke reviews graphics, photographs, films and other media from many countries and periods and examines their pragmatic uses. This profusely illustrated book surveys the opportunities and the challenges of using images to understand other times in a thorough and compelling defense of the importance of the visual to history. Burke argues that images should not be considered mere reflections of their time and place but rather extensions of the social contexts in which they were produced. The author describes and evaluates the methods by which art historians have traditionally analyzed images and finds them insufficient to deal with the complexities of visual imagery in developing a richer mode of visual interpretation. Burke devotes much attention to religious icons and narratives and political propaganda posters caricatures and maps eyewitnessing also addresses the economics of images some such as films are commodities in themselves and others are created to advertise other products concentrating on the representation of social groups the author explores stereotypes as well as notions of foreignness and gender in this wide ranging highly accessible volume burke helps us to understand the promise and the pitfalls of using visual evidence in the writing of history
