this volume brings together scholars in religion archaeology philology and history to explore case studies and theoretical models of converging religions the twenty four essays offered in this volume which derive from hittite cilician lydian phoenician greek and roman cultural settings focus on encounters at the boundaries of cultures landscapes chronologies social class and status the imaginary and the materially operative broad patterns ultimately emerge that reach across these boundaries and suggest the state of the question on the study of convergence and the potential fruitfulness for comparative and interdisciplinary studies as models continue to evolve

one of the most significant developments in the study of works of art over the past generation has been a shift in focus from the works themselves to the viewer's experience of them and the relation of that experience both to the works in question and to other aspects of cultural life the ten essays written for this volume address the experience of art in early modern europe and approach it from a variety of methodological perspectives concerns range from the relation between its perceptual and significative dimensions to the ways in which its discursive formation anticipates but does not exactly correspond to later notions of aesthetic experience the modes of engagement vary from careful empirical studies that explore the complex complementary relationship between works of art and textual evidence of different kinds to ambitious efforts to mobilize the powerful interpretative tools of psychoanalysis and phenomenology this diversity testifies to the vitality of current interest in the experience of beholding and the urgency of the challenge it poses to contemporary art historical practice
