the editor in chief of the economist illuminates what global issues mattered in the last century and how the ways in which we deal with them will shape our lives in the next the attacks on september 11th 2001 shook the rich west out of its complacency suddenly peace looked to be in peril even before that time prosperity was endangered as campaigns mounted against the purported evils of capitalist globalization such as inequality pollution and financial instability and as america s high tech stockmarket boom turned to bust yet in the decade following the end of the cold war prospects had looked so rosy with peace prevailing among the world s great powers with billions of people joining the world market economy and with great waves of technological change driving economies forwards what to make of such confusion and disappointment what will the 21st century be like now bill emmott editor of the world s leading current affairs weekly the economist argues that the best way to think about the future is to look back at the past at the forces that have shaped our world and at what they tell us about the things that really matter in determining whether we are at peace or at war in a state of liberty or repression in a period of prosperity or of depression from the twentieth century we can learn that two questions matter above all others will america continue to lead the world and to protect its peace and will we continue to accept capitalism with all its strengths and weaknesses or will it be challenged once again bill emmott s 20 21 vision provides the answers that matter for all our lives in the twenty first century essay from the year 2017 in the subject politics topic peace and conflict security grade n a brunel university course intelligence security studies language english abstract the issue of the mutual boundaries between counterintelligence ci and security sy activities and responsibilities has been largely engaged on a theoretical level over the last few decades however the lack of an accurate and widely agreed distinction has generated a certain confusion about what the actual distribution of the responsibilities of each activity is in daily practice as a preliminary discussion this essay will analyse the responsibilities of both ci agents and sy officers in order to clarify similarities and differences arguing that the practice of counterintelligence is not simply an extension of the sy officer s one although there are some common duties secondly it will illustrate how these differences apply to different organizations by presenting examples of state cia and non state ira actors finally it will be argued that the division of responsibilities between ci practitioners and sy officers lies with the nature of the organization considered as it appears clearly defined in the state actors whereas it assumes different forms in the non state actors
