Kabbalistic Manuscripts and Textual Theory uncovers the unstated assumptions and expectations of scribes and scholars who fashioned editions from manuscripts of Jewish mystical literature this study offers a theory of kabbalistic textuality in which the material book the printed page no less than handwritten manuscripts serves as the site for textual dialogue between Jewish mystics of different periods and locations the refashioning of the text through the process of reading and commenting that takes place on the page in the margins and between the lines blurs the boundaries between the traditionally defined roles of author reader commentator and editor this study shows that kabbalists and academic editors reinvented the text in their own image as part of a fluid textual process that was nothing short of transformative this book is certainly monumental offering in its seven hundred pages a wealth of documentation and distilled argument that manages to be both comprehensive in its materials and transparent in its critical insights it is rare indeed that a work of such formidable scholarship can actually be a pleasure to read and convincing in its elucidation of what are often extremely complex documentary circumstances and editorial traditions from the foreword by david greetham this volume offers a systematic overview of the different tools through which the human rights accountability of transnational corporations may be improved it first examines the responsibility of states in controlling transnational corporations emphasizing both the limits imposed by the protection of the rights of investors under investment treaties and the potential of the us alien tort claims act and other similar extra territorial legislations it then turns to self regulation by transnational corporations through the use of codes of conduct or international framework agreements it then discusses recent attempts at the global level to improve the human rights accountability of corporations by the direct imposition on corporations of obligations under international law finally it considers the use of public procurement policies or of conditionalities in the lending policies of multilateral lending institutions in order to incentivize tncs to behave ethically altogether the book offers a rigorous legal analysis of these different developments and critically appraises their potential
