the author of this book gerard lukken has always believed that liturgy is not something which is unchangeable or sacrosanct something to be imposed from above rather he believes that it must gain shape and content from the situation in which believers find themselves this involvement is reflected in the hundreds of publications which have flowed from his pen lukken s extensive writings offer not only an exciting reflection on the challenges such as secularization and the decrease in church going confronting church and believers but also on the problems they have faced in celebrating their faith in recent decades moreover his work represents a model for methodological renewal the key concepts in his theological approach and his evaluation are anthropology and semiotics these two aspects have left their marks on the organisation of this book which is a selective compilation drawn from his earlier publications this collection consists of nineteen studies which have lost nothing of their topicality and most of which are now being translated into english french or german for the first time by crossing the frontier of language in such a way the editors wish not only to honour a leading specialist in liturgy but also to contribute to academic research into liturgy throughout the world gerard lukken 1933 studied at the diocesan seminary in haaren noord brabant the pontificia universita in rome and the institut superieur de liturgie in paris he was professor of liturgy and sacramental theology from 1967 and director of the liturgical institute from 1992 at the theological faculty of tilburg until his retirement in 1994 a fresh interpretation of the nature purpose and date of jerome s epistle 106 in this volume of the writings from the greco roman world series michael graves offers the first accessible english translation and commentary on jerome s epistle 106 an important work of patristic biblical interpretation in his treatise jerome discusses different textual and exegetical options according to various greek and latin copies of the psalms with input from the hebrew epistle 106 provides insightful commentary on the gallican psalter jerome's translation of origen's hexaplaric edition jerome's work offers a unique window into the complex textual state of the psalter in the late fourth century and serves as an outstanding example of ancient philological scholarship on the bible graves's translation and commentary is an essential resource for scholars and students of patristic exegesis biblical textual criticism and late antique christianity famous mainly for his chansons and epigrams the french poet clément marot 1496 1544 also supplied the texts for the huguenot psalter did he only paraphrase the psalms to do marguerite de navarre the leading lady of reform oriented france a favour or was there more to it this book offers a new approach to this question which has got stuck in a yes no discussion a breakthrough is forced by the author's focussing on the psalm paraphrases themselves which until now have never actually been included in marot research analysed from a multidisciplinary perspective the successive versions of these paraphrases reveal that marot was interested in reaching a consistent literary and historically reliable versification of the psalms thus implicitly questioning the traditional christological exegesis the author's perusal of jewish exegetical insights kimhi ibn ezra in martin bucer's commentary shows where marot acquired a satisfactory hermeneutical framework the papers gathered in this volume were all given in 1999 at the international congress on medieval studies in kalamazoo at the international medieval congress in leeds and during a day conference held at york they agree that looking at the wide range of narrative forms available provides new ways of viewing the middle ages all the writings which come to us from antiquity including the writings of the old and new testaments have suffered from misadventures the interpreter of these materials cannot proceed from assumptions which would be accepted without question in the study of a modern book the text to be interpreted must first be established it is not already defined the available witnesses to the text must first be examined in order to reconstruct a single form of the text which we can assert with confidence to be as close to the form of the autographs as scientific principles can lead us if not ideally identical with them the work of textual criticism is both a preliminary and an integral part of the task of interpretation its role may once have been overrated just as now it tends to be overlooked yet its service remains indispensable the purpose and goal of our critical editions of the bible is to assist in achieving an objective understanding of the text they bring together in a convenient form a vast array of material well beyond the capacity of individual scholars to assemble for themselves to provide the first requirements for a systematic study of the text but to deal with all this material and use it effectively we must understand its peculiarities and the value of its various elements when faced with a difficult passage we cannot simply gather together the various readings and select the one which seems to offer the simplest solution at times preferring the hebrew text at other times the septuagint and yet other times the aramaic targum textual witnesses are not all equally reliable each has its own character and its own peculiar history we must be familiar with these if we hope to avoid inadequate or false solutions
