alluring opportunities examines the lives of african laborers in the tourism industry in the portuguese colony of mozambique and the social ascension that many of these workers achieved in spite of demanding conditions from the origin of the colonial period until its end in 1975 the tourism industry developed on the backs of these laborers and ultimately became an important source of foreign exchange for portugal todd cleveland explores the daily experiences of local tourism workers in the genesis and expansion of this vital industry with an analytical utility that transcends africa s borders by complicating the narrative established and reinforced by an expansive body of literature that stresses the exploitation of indigenous tourism workers he argues that just as foreign tourists embraced the opportunity to travel to various locations in mozambique so too did many indigenous laborers seize opportunities for employment in the tourism industry in an effort to realize social mobility via both the steady wages that they earned and their daily interactions with sojourning clientele alluring opportunities reconstructs these workers lives highlighting their critical contributions to the local industry while also prompting a reconsideration of indigenous labor and social mobility in colonial africa as a result cleveland reveals new ways of thinking more broadly about the ways that tourism shapes processes of empire interracial interactions and power relations when zambia became independent in 1964 the white colonial population did not suddenly evaporate some had supported independence others had virulently opposed it but all had to reappraise their nationality residence and careers a few became zambian citizens and many more chose to stay while without committing themselves but most of the colonial population eventually trickled out of the country to start again elsewhere pamela charmer smith has traced survivors of this population to discover how new lives were constructed and new perspectives generated her account draws on the power of postcolonial memory to understand the many ways that copper miners district officers school children and housewives became the empires relics her work is not that of a dispassionate outsider but of one who grew up in northern rhodesia knew its colonial population and has considerable affection for zambia
