this book takes up the challenge of examining the thorniest educational issue from a global perspective it contributes to the evidence based conversation among policy makers educators and researchers around the world about what works to improve the education outcomes and what can make a bigger difference for the education of diverse students the eleven countries included the united kingdom austria canada the united states south africa ghana china singapore malaysia australia and new zealand are unique and yet overlap in the sense that they all face similar challenges of teaching diverse students the authors being education and cultural insiders discuss country specific policies efforts and best practices in the education of diverse students share stories of success and failure and explore current best practices from global social political and economic perspectives built on previous theories and research it describes diverse students experiences in the global and information age and searches for effective policies and practices that help these students to perform better in school and in life readers are forced to step outside of their own experiences and commonly held beliefs about education conscious recognition that there are other ways of doing things may result in new approaches that we have not explored before we hope the insights lessons and conclusions drawn from examining this pressing education issue from a global perspective will help nations to better understand and deal with it

many countries now employ national evaluation systems to demonstrate publicly that universities provide a quality education however the current processes of quality evaluation are often detached from the practices of teaching and learning in particular those who teach and those who learn still have to be won over to such audit processes this book argues that it is time for the higher education sector to concern itself with the human dimension so as to develop both academic professionalism and students commitment to their learning based on five completed research projects which explore academics and students experiences and their views of quality evaluation the book argues that developing the intrinsic values of teaching and learning held by academics and students is key to achieving high quality education in this book the author critically reviews the four most frequently used terms related to current quality evaluation fitness for purpose value for money student satisfaction and students as customers and argues for a motivationally intelligent quality approach emphasising the moral dimension and the intrinsic values of academics and students the author also outlines an improved quality evaluation system that encourages and increases academics and students commitment to teaching and learning
