narrative inquiry is based on the proposition that experience is the stories lived and told by individuals as they are embedded within cultural social institutional familial political and linguistic narratives it represents the phenomenon of experience but also constitutes a methodology for its study at the heart of this methodology is relational ethics however until now the functioning of this key relationship in practice has remained largely undefined in this book the authors take on the essential task of developing a conceptual framework for the application of relational ethics to narrative inquiry building on a corpus of more generalized research this book is grounded in a multi year study with indigenous youth and families the authors describe their experiences of narrative inquiry highlighting how relational ethics informed their negotiation of these research relationships they also engage in a conversation with the work of philosophers who have guided their narrative inquiry to offer a more thorough understanding of relational ethics through this and contributions from five further studies on a diverse range of subjects a number of key points for successful relational ethics are isolated and expounded upon this book is an invaluable tool for researchers and postgraduates engaged in qualitative research providing clear and practical guidance on ethical concerns it also extends the work of the authors two previous titles engaging in narrative inquiry and engaging in narrative inquiries with children and youth transitions in sport can be either normative relatively predictable or non normative less predictable and are critical times in the development of athlete s careers whilst retirement from sport is inevitable the timing of retirement can be less predictable if an athlete copes well with the transition they may be better able to adjust to life after sport however not coping with the transition can lead to a crisis and negative consequences for the athlete transition periods from sport and in particular retirement from sport have been identified as high risk periods for athletes in terms of psychological distress however circumstances surrounding the athlete s retirement are a critical factor in the transition into life after sport voluntarily retiring from sport for example leads to a smoother transition than being forced into retirement through injury or deselection research indicates that retirement from sport should be seen as a process rather than a single moment with many athletes taking up to 2 years to successfully transition out of sport currently there are few bodies of work that are solely devoted to retirement transition athlete transitions into retirement experiences in elite sport and options for effective support provides contemporary viewpoints on athlete transitions from elite sport in a global context this volume is a collaboration of research from leading authors around the world offering global perspectives to athlete transitions into retirement and is key reading for both researchers and practitioners in the fields of sport psychology and coaching as well as the athletes themselves care is fundamental to human survival yet it is often overlooked undermined undervalued and thought of as women s work care of the old is particularly low in status and is too readily occluded this volume asks why and how cultures of care for older people are negatively configured it examines some of the powerful responses to relationships of intergenerational care in recent creative works by women it thereby contributes to the contemporary imperative to transform care by investigating some of the ways in which care might be redefined and reconceptualized taking as its focus the representation or narrativization of care in theory literature visual culture and performance it engages with contemporary female authored works from diverse cultural contexts encouraging the development of comparative cross cultural perspectives narrative is key here for it is in stories about ageing and care that the complexities and ambiguities of care relationships are made available and that simplified ideas about them are challenged this volume will be of interest to scholars in literary and cultural studies gender studies critical age studies the medical and health humanities and all who are interested in care

this timely research handbook provides a comprehensive overview of how aging affects occupational health and safety experts explore global trends and scientific theories on workplace aging to gain deeper insight into underlying issues in the field and identify areas for improvement aging has long been of interest to scholars and practitioners in a vast array of academic fields and professions thomas r cole ruth e ray and robert kastenbaum have brought together leaders from a variety of academic realms to explore how aging is depicted in the modern era and the effect of these portrayals on individuals and society this important new book brings together some of the best known international scholars working within a critical gerontology perspective together they review and update our understanding of how the field has developed over the last twenty five years and through the lens of passionate scholarship provide a challenging assessment of the complex practical and ethical issues facing older people and those who conduct research on ageing in the 21st century the contributions extend the critical gerontological approach conceptually methodologically and practically they offer close and scholarly analysis of policies affecting the lives of older people and provide insights into why research is done in particular ways special attention is paid to feminist contributions and new approaches to working in partnership with older people age discrimination and ageism the impact of neo liberal policies and the passage of various human rights instruments the re medicalisation of later life the participation of older people in research and justice between generations the editors and contributors offer suggestions for promoting change and an exciting set of visions and perspectives for the renewal and development of critical gerontology in the years ahead critical perspectives on ageing societies will be a valuable resource for all students academics and practitioners interested in ageing and the life course scheib draws on her extensive research insights of gerontology sociology psychology and anthropology and her experience as a practical pastoral theologian to develop a new approach to pastoral care with older women a pastoral approach to aging that takes into account the social context as well as individual analysis and theological reflection she proposes a model of care and a set of practices that challenge women s invisibility and assist congregations in being good places to grow old book jacket
