what if christians did more than offer thoughts and prayers in response to gun violence ethicist michael austin argues from a biblical but nonpacifist perspective that we can impose firearms restrictions to make our society safer and less fearful while still respecting the rights of gun owners god and guns in america is a thoughtful measured and articulate treatment of a polarizing topic that is too often treated with more heat than light in this astonishing and at times terrifying book acclaimed writer and political commentator martin dillon examines for the first time the true role of religion in the conflict in northern ireland he interviewed those directly involved terrorists like kenny mcclinton and billy wright and churchmen like father pat buckley finding that the terrorists were more forthcoming than the priests and ministers dillon charts the history of the paramilitary forces on both sides and exposes the shocking covert role of british intelligence he finds that ultimately both the church and government have failed their communities allowing men and women of violence to fill a vacuum with bigotry and violence
