this book aims to recast the way that philosophers understand rhetoric rather than follow most philosophers in conceiving rhetoric as a specific way of speaking or writing it shows that rhetoric is better understood as a dimension of all human discourse and action what the author calls rhetoricity this book provides the first philosophical treatment of rhetoricity it is motivated by two ongoing developments the first is the debate between alain badiou and barbara cassin about philosophy s relation to rhetoric both badiou and cassin are critical of rhetoric albeit for different reasons second there has been a growing resurgence of interest in rhetoric considering the recent rise in authoritarian politics as well as new forms of propaganda driven by persuasive technologies this book identifies the common target of badiou s and cassin s otherwise incompatible critiques rhetoric s conception of audience it offers a fresh take on the new rhetoric project of chaïm perelman and lucie olbrechts tyteca putting their work into conversation with the badiou cassin debate the book then turns to the hermeneutic philosophy of paul ricoeur in search of an expanded conception of audience it shows that ricoeur s hermeneutic philosophy allows us to extend perelman and olbrechts tyteca s psychological notion of audience to texts themselves and to argue that human beings have a rhetorical capacity to reflect on audiences in search of what is potentially persuasive the rhetoricity of philosophy will be of interest to scholars and advanced students working in contemporary european philosophy rhetoric argumentation studies and social theory
