this book provides a unique perspective on the linguistic relationships between the ancient egyptian and bantu languages of east central southern africa it will be of interest to readers of egyptology linguists students and the wider public who wish to find out more about the structure of the ancient egyptian language and how it connects with other languages particularly with bantu languages the subject matter is different from other books as it examines the etymology of words together with their sound meaning relationships and shows by using verifiable hieroglyphic forms how ancient egyptian words may be pronounced by inserting bantu vowels which fit the meanings derived from the skeletal templates of consonants in the ancient egyptian language

this book introduces an analytic framework constructed upon the iterated prisoners dilemma game to model and analyze transboundary water interactions along the nile river it presents a thorough and in depth analysis of the historical path through which conflict and cooperation have been generated among the nile riparians over large scale developmental schemes this is done through modeling water interactions in the basin as an iterated prisoners dilemma game and employing process tracing method to compare four distinguishable rounds of the game the colonial round the cold war round the post cold war round and the post 2011 round the book examines the influences of the changing political contexts at the domestic regional and global levels on the game outcomes this framework is initially applied on several cases of international rivers worldwide while the rest of the book is devoted to the nile case the book s central argument is that the riparians interests capabilities and beliefs are heterogeneous in varying degrees and that the changing multilevel political contexts influence the level of such heterogeneities among the riparians which ultimately drive the equilibrium dynamics in the nile game to generate different conflictive and cooperative outcomes over time although the book s main conclusion indicates that the absence of economic interdependence and regional integration will transfer the game into tug of war which will impose harsh punishment on the basin communities and ecosystems on the long term the final chapter lists a group of recommendations addressed to the riparian states and international donors exploring the way for boosting cooperation and preventing conflicts in the basin presenting clear theoretical methodological and policy implications this book is appropriate for students and scholars of international relations hydrology and development studies
