between 1907 and 1975 hollywood movie makers made 575 movies specifically set although not usually filmed in canada that statistic will startle those canadians who have been told that foreign audiences won't sit still for a film about their country as pierre berton points out in this explosive tragic and often funny book the opposite is true movies about canada have been making money in international markets for half a century but the Canada that has been shown to the world is very different from the real Canada and the Canadian image now firmly fixed in the minds of three generations of moviegoers is a caricature of the real thing if Canadians have no sense of their own identity it is partly because American movie makers have distorted and blurred that identity and if foreigners think of this country as a land of snow swept forests and mountains devoid of larger cities and peopled by happy go lucky French Canadians wicked half breeds wild trappers and loggers savage Indians and above all grim jawed Mounties that is because Hollywood has pictured us that way Berton who has examined the plot of almost every movie made about this country finds that the Hollywood image of Canada and its people have been consistent since the first one reel silent films were made in 1907 the prairies are rarely shown almost every movie is an outdoor film set in the wilderness the only city mentioned with any regularity is Montreal the Great Woods begin at the border and stretch on to the Arctic Circle the Canadian frontier is seen by Hollywood as an extension of the American frontier lawless and violent peopled by gunslingers and studded with gambling halls and saloons the Mountie is treated as an American frontier marshal in a red coat the Klondike and the Yukon territory are totally confused with Alaska our great historical adventures when they are dealt with at all the building of the Canadian Pacific for example and the Riel rebellion are distorted to the point where they are unrecognizable Cecil B. DeMille's production of North West Mounted Police was hailed by international critics including Canadians as the most authentic pictures ever made about the Mounties but as Berton shows in fascinating detail DeMille turned history topsy turvy and managed to give the impression that the Mounties themselves had okayed the film Berton's research which has taken him from London to Hollywood and which makes use of hitherto unpublished material from the files of the RCMP and the public archives of Canada reveals in detail the successful efforts of the Hollywood lobby to quash a quota system for films in post war Canada a system that might have given us a native born movie industry the book is studded with illuminating discoveries a plea from Rudolph Friml's office to Pierre Elliott Trudeau begging him not to destroy the beautiful legend of Rose Marie the author points out there are four legends all totally different an RCMP commissioner's wistful telegram to Hollywood Mounted Police would appreciate being left alone the Yukon River steamboat sequence slipped into a movie about the Dionne quintuplets the trials and tribulations of an ex Mountie acting as technical adviser in Hollywood these are some of the surprises in a book which is not only an exciting revelatory narrative of more than sixty years of exploitation but also a work of careful scholarship publisher
